SOCIETY WIFE GIVES UP ALL FOR ARTIST

MRS. HELENE PUTNAM KELLOGG

Mrs. Helen Putnam Sigourney, prominent Boston and Brookline society matron, gave up her husband and her three charming children to marry an artist of little, if any, fame.

Mrs. Sigourney was divorced in the Seine Tribunal, Paris, last May by her husband, Henry Louis Sigourney, son of one of Boston's first families, on grounds of desertion.

BOTH BROUGHT SUIT.

The divorce resulted from a double suit. Mrs. Sigourney petitioned the Seine Tribunal on grounds of incompatibility, after family difficulties had been aired in the courts here.

FEAR LYNCHING OF VERMONT SLAYER

Barre, Vt., ug. 7.—Retribution stalks the trail of the slayer of twelve-year-old Leona Tracy. He is now in hiding in the woodland a few miles out.

Swearing on the family Bible to avenge his daughter's death, Herbert Tracy took command of a posse of neighbors, armed with shot guns, now beating through the brush of the mountain side.

Other searchers, police and deputy sheriffs are blocking the roads. The word has been passed to shoot to kill.

The murder of the innocent child has roused the countryside to such a pitch of fury that the authorities fear they will be unable to prevent a lynching if the murderer is captured alive.

Leona and her playmate, Nancy Brissette, started from their home, a mile and a half out, to go to the city on an errand.

About a half mile from her home

CORCORAN MUST STAY IN JAIL, DECLARES O'BRIEN

District Attorney O'Brien today informed John P. Walsh, attorney for William J. Corcoran, that if Walsh so wished, he would set the case of the former district attorney of Middlesex County for trial next Tuesday.

Walsh informed O'Brien he would prefer to have the case go over until September.

He had called up O'Brien to ask whether it would be possible to admit Corcoran to bail meantime. O'Brien stuck to the stand he has taken since Corcoran was brought to Boston from New York and refused to consider release on bail.

Previously Walsh held conference with Attorney-General Benton relative to the removal of the default entered against Corcoran in the Superior Court June 19. Benton informed Walsh it was a matter to

Wm. J. Corcoran

John P. Walsh

O'Brien to decide.

It is possible Walsh may make a motion in the Supreme Court to offset the release of Corcoran on bail.

KU KLUX HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR HARDING

Springfield, Aug. 7.—The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan held a midnight memorial service in memory of the late President Harding on Saturday on a hilltop in Hampden, it became known today. More than 500 members from all parts of western Massachusetts were present. For one minute the fiery cross blazed against the sky while the knights knelt in silence with heads bowed.

"We shall hold another on Friday while the President is being buried," said Charles C. Lewis, local klan leader, today. He refused to say where it would be held.

PRESIDENT WARNS OF MEDIATION

Will Act Unless Unions and Operators Block Threatened Mine Strike

Washington, Aug. 7.—President Coolidge is prepared to make a firm demand that the anthracite coal operators and miners come to an agreement and prevent a suspension of mining in the anthracite field.

This was indicated today when the Chief Executive had a conference on the coal situation with Chairman John Hays Hammond, of the United State Coal Commission.

The President expressed no desire to mediate in the threatened crisis. He regards it as the duty of the operators and miners to get together themselves and believe that their good sense will bring them together and eliminate the necessity of any intervention.

The President told Chairman Hammond that as yet he did not feel that any emergency had arisen that necessarily there was any necessity for calling an extra session of Congress

10 CHICAGO AUTOISTS KILLED AT RAILROAD CROSSINGS

Chicago, Aug. 7 (I.N.S.)—Ten Chicagoans are dead today and four as a result of automobile crashes at grade crossings late last night and early today.

All of the dead and injured are members of three families.

The dead include George B. Walkup, private secretary to G. E. Patterson, general superintendent of the Illinois Central R. R.; Mrs. Julia Walkup, his wife; George Washington Walkup, Jr., their son, W. G. Walkup; Mrs. Anna Walkup and George Walkup's brother.

The Walkups were killed when their car was demolished by an interurban traction system electric train at a crossing in Girard.

NINE SENTENCED TO DEATH AS RUSSIAN R.R. GRAFTERS

TRIES TO KILL WIFE, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Benjamin Simpson, a retired grocer of No. 12½ Circuit street, Roxbury, attempted to kill his wife early today, was unsuccessful, then slashed himself with a razor. He is lying in City Hospital.

The attack occurred as his wife slept in their home. She was awakened to find Simpson with a death grip on her throat. She struggled and screamed. A daughter ran to her assistance from the floor below. Then she ran for police and a physician.

While she was on Simpson raced to another room, seized a razor and slashed his throat. He was unconscious in a pool of blood when Dr. Joseph Lawrence of No. 37 Main street arrived. Simpson is sixty-three years old. He has suffered from mental derangement and once before attempted suicide.

SWIM WINS $5,000 FOR SULLIVAN

Dover, Aug. 7 (A.P.)—The Daily Sketch announced today that it had decided to award to Henry Sullivan the 1,000 pounds prize it offered some time ago for the Channel swim.

The newspaper says that although Sullivan entered the contest he did not fulfill the conditions, inasmuch as there was no representative of the paper in the accompanying boat, but that in view of his pluck and the fact that there is no doubt of his having accomplished the feat, the prize will be awarded.

The story of Sullivan's victory appears in the Sporting Section.

ARREST OF 'BANDIT QUEEN,' 19, REVEALS $25,000 ROBBERIES

New York, Aug. 7 (I.N.S.)—Police today held pretty nineteen-year-old Ethel Chatleyowitz, described by them as "dark and vampirish," on charges of being the "bandit queen" in command of a robber brigade of youths who, during the last two years, have burglarized Brooklyn homes of $25,

The girl was arrested when, with two companions, she entered the apartment of Mrs. Bessie Shepherd, No. 64 Middleton street, Brooklyn. The girls, the police say, confessed. She said she planned all the robberies and acted as leader in their execution.

COOLIDGE'S ADVENT CAUSES CAPITAL TO SEETHE WITH POLITICS

STANDPAT LEADERS CONFER WITH PRESIDENT

By H. H. STANSBURY.
Universal Service.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Secretary of State Hughes caused to be issued an announcement that there would be no further conferences between officials of the State Department and newspaper representatives until some time next week, at the earliest.

Back of this announcement it is authoritatively known that Secretary Hughes has been unable in a number of consultations to obtain any definite indication from President Coolidge concerning the policies he proposes to adopt for dealing with pending foreign questions.

Mr. Coolidge's most intimate advisers assert that when the new Executive is ready to define a program in connection with international problems it unquestionably will be based upon the consideration that he has been injected into the political situation as a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination and any policy he evolves now will be carried into the next national campaign.

These friends of the President, most of them new to Washington but recognized as close to Mr. Coolidge, admit that he agrees with the arguments for participation by the United States in a World Court.

"CAL" IS ASTUTE

They do not hesitate to point out, however, that Calvin Coolidge is a most astute politician and is not likely to take a stand on this issue that is virtually certain to wreck any chance the Republican candidate will have for election in 1924.

Mr. Hughes' action came at the height of another day of intensive political discussion in conferences of Republican leaders with President Coolidge and among themselves. Sentiment among the gathering politicians had pretty well crystallized on this view of the present situation and the future outlook.

WIDENS SPLIT

That the political earthquake precipitated by President Harding's death, which put Mr. Coolidge in the White House and made him titular leader of the Republican party, has widened the already existing breach between the reactionaries and progressives almost beyond hope of repair.

That Mr. Coolidge is a candidate for the Presidential nomination to succeed himself, and lined up behind him will be the same old guard group that defied the popular choice at Chicago.

This element of the party is responsible for the enactment of the Esch Cummins transportation act, it stands for the Fordney McCumber high tariff law and it put through the present Federal tax law—all of which are bitterly opposed by the progressives and largely constitute the foundation of the political revolt in the West.

That this situation, with Mr. Coolidge's own established conservatism, definitely ends any hope of bringing the progressives into line behind his candidacy, and thereby gives added strength to the third party movement unless a progressive candidate is nominated.

That this lineup makes Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California the outstanding and logical candidate for the Presidential nomination as representing the progressive elements. There is no cohesion between these elements now.

La Follette, Brookhart, Frazier, Shipstead, Magnus Johnson, Ladd and Norris, in the Central West, Hiram Johnson from the Far West, and Borah from the Rocky Mountain section, do not stand for identical programs. But they are together on enough things to make it an easy matter to combine forces against a common foe.

SEE COAL COUP

Republican leaders predicted, too, that President Coolidge would not call an extra session of Congress, except as a last resort, in dealing with the coal situation or unless he can prepare a definite program of legislation of vital domestic needs which will conform to his own conservative principles and at the same time have some assurance of acceptance. Mr. Coolidge was declared by callers to have stated that he had an open mind on the subject.

The impression is taking root that the new executive, following his historic stand in the Boston police strike, will attempt a coup in dealing with the coal controversy, if he becomes convinced that a strike is actually threatened.

It was suggested in quarters which had been in communication with him that he may call the anthracite operators and miners together and say to them that there shall be no strike, that the full power of the Federal government will be employed to keep the mines in operation and demand that they settle their differences.

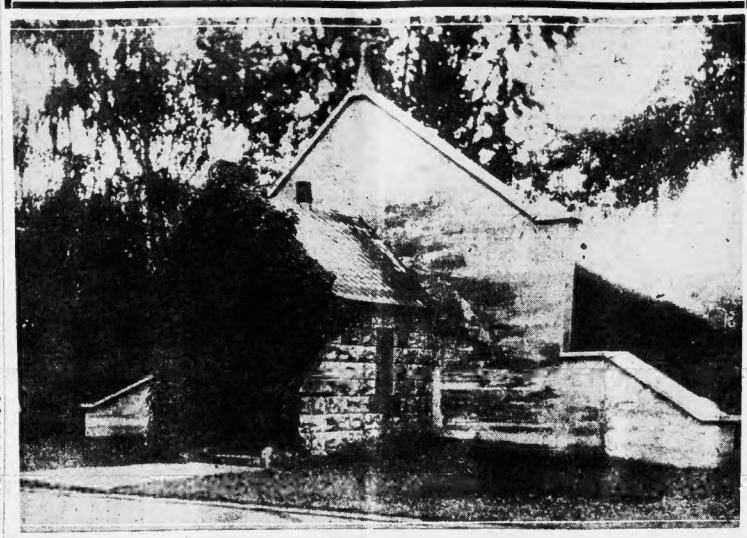
The political situation, as viewed by the Republican National Committee, was laid before the new titular leader of the party yesterday by Chairman John T. Adams, John B. Kessling, national committeeman from Indiana, and one of the leaders at national headquarters, also was closeted with the President. Mr. Kessling said they talked about the political outlook and the party's prospects and went over minor party policies.

From the Capitol, Senators Moses, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, Cummins, president pro-tempore during the last session, Spencer, of Missouri and Cameron of Arizona, conferred with the executive. Cummins was accompanied by former Senator Rawson of Iowa; former Senator Kellogg of Minnesota also paid a call.

More significance probably attached to the presence of Fred L. Fishback of Massachusetts about the Presidential suite. He was in and out with the same freedom as that enjoyed by Frank W. Stearns, the "Colonel House" of the new administration. Mr. Fishback was secretary to the late Senator Murray Crane, President Coolidge's political mentor. Carmi Thompson of Ohio, a close friend of President Harding, was a late political caller.

Today another group of Massachusetts politicians are scheduled for a conference. They are George A. Rich, Earle E. Davidson and Horace A. Keith, all officials of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, which plays an important part in Bay State politics. Support of the officials of the club is essential in winning the delegation of the national convention.

Where Harding's Body Will Lie



Coolidge's own established conservatism, definitely ends any hope of bringing the progressives into line

HUNT VERMONT GIRL'S SLAYER

the children paused to take some apples from a neighbor's orchard.

While they were sitting on the grass the killer came up. He posed as a policeman and threatened to arrest the girls. Leona started to cry.

Let Nancy tell what happened next: "He said, 'Don't cry, little girl, I am not a cop and I wouldn't hurt you.' Then he put his arm around Leona's shoulders and rubbed his face against hers and he told me, 'Go away.' I wouldn't go 'cause I was afraid he would hurt Leona.

TOLD THEIR MOTHER.

"After a while he hugged her and he said, 'You met me down by your house at 4:30 and I will buy you some ice cream.' Then he got up and walked down the road toward Barre and Leona and I ran the other way. We went home and told our mothers. We were awfully frightened."

Mrs. Tarcy was indignant when she heard Leona's story and started for a nearby house to telephone for the police.

Down the road, a short distance from her home she came upon the killer, waiting for the child to keep the tryst. She threatened him with the vengeance of her husband. The man begged Mrs. Tracy not to call the police nor tell her husband, but she continued to her friend's home and telephoned Chief Sullivan.

SHOT IN COLD BLOOD.

Scorning the advice of her neighbor to wait the arrival of the police, Mrs. Tracy grasped Leona by the hand and started back. Fifty yards ahead was the killer, mumbling and running his hands through his hair.

According to Mrs. Tracy, the killer ran in front of her crying over and over: "I will never go to jail for I will kill you and kill myself.

He tugged at his gun, caught in the folds of his khaki shirt.

Realizing she was facing death, the mother knelt in the dust and raised her hands in supplication. Leona kneeled, too, and according to the mother, began saying her Rosary.

The prayer beads seemed to further infuriate the maniac and he began hopping up and down before them, shouting and cursing. Mother and daughter started to run. The killer fired one shot. It pierced Leona's heart. She fell face downward.

Mrs. Tracy turned just as the man raised his pistol to his forehead. She screamed. He droped his hand and ran across a field, pursued by John Wildgoose and George Lamay, who were approaching.

Within a half hour posses were out. They searched all night, but thus far have found no trace of the slayer.

Fearing he may attack other women and children, residents in the district have barricaded their doors and women alone are refusing to answer summons to the door.

5 HURT AS AUTO HITS POST

Brockton, Aug. 7.—Five persons were injured today when an automobile plunged into a ditch and overturned after striking a post on Main street, near the Bridgewater line, in Campello.

Patrick Cicel was most seriously hurt, suffering a fracture of the right leg and possibly internal injuries.

Jeremiah Quil was internally injured. Louis Percito, James Gallagher and Joseph Hendrigan, the driver, were badly bruised. The car was wrecked.

CROWDS HALT FUNERAL TRAIN AS IT NEARS CAPITAL

Indiana in time that almost constituted a record for that portion of the route.

Desperate efforts were made during the night by railroad officials in charge of the train to regain at least a portion of the time lost yesterday in the States of Iowa and Illinois and in the city of Chicago. It was practically certain early today that the funeral train would not reach Washington at the scheduled hour of 1:39 p. m., but how much later the arrival would be was somewhat of a question.

ASKS SPEED TO BE CUT.

Mrs. Harding, who obtained four hours of sleep in spite of the excitement attendant upon the trip through the President's home State and the large crowds which awaited the train, woke and talked with Dr. Carl Sawyer, who came here with others from Marion to consult her about arrangements for the funeral services.

Mrs. Harding previously had requested railroad officials to see that the train traveled no faster than fifty miles an hour at any time and that its maximum speed in cities and towns where crowds were gathered be ten miles per hour, regardless of the effect it might have on the time the train reaches Washington.

At Willard, O., Miss Abigail Harding, the President's sister, boarded the train to continue to Washington.

As at other points, a large crowd awaited the arrival of the train and sadly watched it proceed on its journey hours behind schedule.

Though the trip through Iowa and Illinois, including Chicago, caused the train to lose time on its eastward journey, the tribute paid to the memory of the late President throughout that section will be told and retold for years to come.

Estimates of those accustomed to gauging the size of crowds were that more than a million persons had witnessed the passing of the cortege, all with bared heads and sorrowing hearts. No chief executive of the nation, living or dead, ever received such a tribute, in the opinion of members of the funeral party.

The State of Indiana, not to be outdone by her sisters of the West, paid an almost continuous tribute as the train thundered along in the darkness. Those who reverently watched the passing of the train could be distinguished by those aboard by the lights at the station platforms and by the glare of automobile lights at almost every point the railroad crosses a highway.

But they were there and they were able to present their respects to the honored dead and catch a glimpse of the flag-covered coffin with its military guard in the last car.

Entering Ohio, the throngs seemed to increase in size despite the hour and at Akron and Youngstown, several thousands were waiting to pay a final mark of respect to their fellow Ohioan.

If the bereaved widow could have directed the train without regard to the other considerations, it probably never would have left the boundaries of Mr. Harding's native State, but the consideration of the nation's claim prevailed with her approval and the train sped on into Pennsylvania and then to follow the route through West Virginia and Maryland to the Union station at Washington.

KU KLUX EMBLEM.

Mrs. Harding was sleeping herself today as the train hurried onward for the scenes of sorrow and mourning in the Capitol. Those who had talked with her said she was quite prepared to go through the formal services in the same calm manner she has maintained during the trip across the country.

When the train arrives in the capital she will be accompanied to the White House with a few of her most intimate friends from among those on board the train.

Floral tributes in large number continued to be placed aboard the train today with the result that fresh blossoms ever lay beside the bier. Among the wreaths presented in Chicago was one bearing the card of the "Grand Dragon of the Realm of Illinois," and the initials of the Ku Klux Klan in blue letters through the centre of a cross.

He Sleeps and Rests Socialists, Please Note Tired of Unhappiness A 100-Billion Idea

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company.

PRESIDENT HARDING will be buried on Friday, with 5000 soldiers handling the crowd at Marion. The day is set aside for mourning, but the national banks will not close. The law forbids it, as the burial day is not a national holiday.

WARREN G. HARDING is far away from it all now. The mourners will gather, sermons will be preached all over the country, but not for his ears. He has begun the sleep that rounds our lives. Sleep and rest come at last to all.

THE SOCIALISTS cast a solemn vote of censure condemning President Coolidge as a friend of capital, then wisely let the resolution die.

Calvin Coolidge is President of the United States. His boy, fifteen years old, is spending his Summer vacation working on a tobacco farm, rolling tobacco into bundles, for $3.50 a day. There is a lesson for some Socialists and others. Friend of capital or not, the Coolidges seems to be friends of hard work, father and son.

"DEAR MOTHER and father, forgive me for what I am doing. I am so tired of being unhappy."

That note was found beside the body of Amy Brown, nineteen.

How huge the list of suicides would be, if all those that get "tired of being unhappy" went out of life, instead of struggling through. Few successful men escape a leaning toward suicide at some time. Luckily a majority win the fight on the side of courage.

MR. BERTELLI, that brilliant correspondent of Universal Service, describes "a beautiful, mysterious American woman, 'Mrs. James Brown,' startling, pale beauty clad in black lace," winning from twenty to sixty thousand dollars a night gambling at Aix Les Bains. Each time when she "rakes in" a big pot of gold, she kisses a large emerald ring on her engagement finger.

ENTIRELY INTERESTING, but those that have been gambling longer than the beautiful, pale and mysterious Mrs. Brown will tell her that if she keeps at it she will, some day, give that ring a farewell kiss.

It will go with her other property—let gamblers made a note of that, whether at Aix Les Bains or in the stock market.

BY SPECIAL SCIENTIFIC process, Henry Ford will get $2 a ton more out of by-products of coal, besides getting the heat. They have been doing that for a long time in Germany. Our specialty in America is waste. Every ton of coke, made in the old way, wastes twice the value of the coke.

HERE'S FOOD for the superstitious. Five different Presidents died, as regards their elections, at twenty-year periods. They are: Harrison, elected in 1840; Lincoln, elected in 1860; Garfield, elected in 1880; McKinley, elected second time in 1900; President Harding, elected in 1920.

Superstitions have been built up on less of a foundation than that.

LAMBORN, HUTCHINGS & CO., brokers, rise to remark that "the lamentable death of our beloved President should have a sobering influence upon the radicals."

This firm thinks that before Congress meets "all fears of radical legislation will undoubtedly have been entirely dispelled."

The conclusion is that the stock market will do better. The stock market certainly needs it, although just what the radicals have had to do with the exposures of bucketshop dishonesty it is difficult to say.

SALESGIRLS HELD FASHION MODELS

The average American salesgirl in the department stores dresses "more tastefully" than the girls who come from homes of great wealth, A. Professor of elocution at Lasell Seminary showed that her love was undying for man she divorced eleven years ago, and who married another, where she hastened to his death bed when, with her assistance in his affections, she knew vital shock claimed his garment of flesh.

"He had a splendid mind and a loving heart," said the first Mrs. Martin, as she offered her sympathy to the bereaved Mrs. Martin No. 2 and her little son.

5 DROWNED IN NEW ENGLAND WATERS

SWIM IN OCEAN
Drownings in New England waters this year to date:

Fresh Water..	68
Fresh Water ...	67
Total	83

Six persons lost their lives in New England waters. Two men were fishing, while the third, a South Boston youth, was vacationing in Maine. The other three victims were children, drowned while bathing. Eric Freud, forty-three years old, of Ironstone street, Millville, and Charles Johnson, fifty years old, of Central street, Millville, were drowned while fishing in the Blackstone River at Millville, when their boat was overturned. The bodies were recovered several hours after the tragedy. Freud was married and the father of six children, while Johnson leaves a widow and five orphans. A man sighted the overturned boat in the river. Two fishing rods and two caps were also seen.

BODIES RECOVERED.

The authorities dragged for the bodies and they were recovered.

Richard A. Clarkson, 20 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clarkson, of No. 1 Hall Place, South Boston, was drowned when he fell from a boat in which he was sailing, at Beaver Pond, Bridgton, Me. He and his brother, Edward, had just started their vacation, this being the first day. It is said that the drowned youth was attacked by heart trouble and fell into the water. His body was recovered.

WATCHES AIRPLANE.

Eleanor Miller, eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of Granby road, Holyoke, was drowned in Legrand's Pond. She had been bathing with several companions about 5 o'clock and is believed to have waded into a gully while watching an airplane writing in the sky.

Martin Mitchell, Jr., aged 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mitchell, was drowned in Cochiace Pond here trying to reach shore, in a boat with five companions. The others were rescued. His body was recovered.

BANDIT SHIPPED IN BOX TO ROB EXPRESS CO.

Los Angeles, Aug. 7.—Prosecution of crime to left the Los Angeles courts of the American Express Company by shipping a man into them in a box, has been disclosed by the police. The plot was uncovered by the arrest of three alleged conspirators, the police announced today.

The man was actually inside the victim, but within two minutes had been made, others of the gang went to the express company and demanded and received the box, according to the police.

Detectives said they were searching for Charles Hilliard, who was arrested three years ago after having himself carried in a trunk to a warehouse of a Hollywood transfer company. Desperate quality was touched after serving one year of a five-year sentence at San Quentin for theft of fence. The police say they believe Dedmon was the man sent into the express company's vaults.

BOOTLEGGERS BUY FAKE STAMPS IN HUB

Worcester, Aug. 7.—Worcester bootleggers are getting bogus revenue stamps in Boston to camouflage the moonshine liquor being sold at high prices here. This is the declaration of members of the vice squad who ask United States revenue department operatives be sent here to investigate.

When raiders swooped down on the dry goods store of Richard Tashjian at No. 12 Trumbull street, they seized a quart of moonshine liquor and 24 of the bogus stamps.

MOURNS FOR DIVORCED HUSBAND

Lasell Teacher Bares Love for Former Spouse as He Approaches Death

Mrs. Blanche C. Martin, professor of elocution at Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, divorced wife of Aaron S. Martin, former superintendent of the Waltham Watch Company, proved that there was a spark of love still burning in her heart for her former husband when she hurried to his bedside at the Waltham Hospital, where he lay dying.

Side by side at the hospital sat the divorced wife and the second wife, Mrs. Gertrude L. Martin, as the life of Aaron Martin passed out.

Later, now in arms, the two women attended the cremation services at the Mt. Auburn Cemetery for the man whom both loved and held in high esteem.

The man who had divorced Mrs. Martin eleven years ago at Lowell, received a letter from her a few days before his death, telling him of her undying love, and begging him to forgive her for all the grievances and hurt she'd dealt.

NOTED EDUCATOR.

Mrs. Blanche Martin has been prominently identified with Lasell Seminary, an exclusive school for girls for the past twenty years and was known to thousands all over the country. Mrs. Martin, who is a woman of thirty-eight years, came from Indiana to Prof. Edward Lasell, founder of Lasell Seminary, and was his secretary and assistant at the Wellesley Seminary. There she met Martin.

The couple were married seven years ago. Last month they, their respective embassies and Martin applied elsewhere and were granted divorces. Martin left Lasell Seminary and went to Waltham, where he was connected with the watch factory as superintendent.

Then, after 23 years of married life, came the bill. Martin, who had been ailing for some time, was stricken with pneumonia. He became critically ill and his condition grew worse. Martin died a few days later.

MARTIN EVADED LAW.

Under the decree Martin was permitted to marry again in one half years. Not long before the expiration of the term he left Waltham and married Gertrude Long and the couple were married there. That was in 1922. Two years later a son was born to the couple. They resided at 34 Tetlow street, Brookline.

Several months ago Martin's health began to fail and he was obliged to move with his family to California. Before they moved Martin's first wife, hearing of his illness, sent her prayers and offered to aid him in any way possible.

The family returned a month ago after Martin was believed to have improved. Soon after his return, however, he began to fail and Saturday died at the Waltham hospital.

LOVE NEVER DIED.

That Mrs. Blanche Martin, for her divorced husband never ceased to borne out by the fact that she did not leave his bedside even after he married again.

Following her return from the cremation services for Martin, his first Mrs. Martin in a statement to The Boston American, paid this high tribute to her dead former husband:

"It seems right and fitting at this time that I, who have known Aaron Martin intimately in every phase of his character since youth, should express a word of praise and loving appreciation for a brave, brave man because he was true to his convictions—and honest and fearless in expressing them and putting them into action. He was loyal to what he thought was the right thing to do regardless of popular opinion, which is a rare and commendable quality in man or woman. He had a splendid mind and a loving heart, as every friend who knew him intimately can testify."

MOTHER AND 2 CHILDREN MISSING

Police are searching fortunes and homes in Greater Boston for Mrs. Fannie Pasquarelli Silvi and her two children Violet, seven years old, and Wilfred, five years old, who disappeared from their home, No. 7241 Beacon street, Waltham.

The missing woman's husband, Caesar, a contractor, and other relatives are also making an extensive search.

The fact that Mrs. Silvi has often threatened to abandon her husband and take the children away to obtain work in a convent or a home has furnished the police with a clue on which to work. The two children are Mrs. Silvi's by a previous marriage.

Mr. Silvi denied that his wife had eloped with another man as previously reported.

AROUSED BY MALICIOUS ATTACKS

Organization to Invoke Law on "Lying" Assailants; Coolidge Lauds Society

Montreal, August 7.—At today's opening session of the Forty-first International Convention of the Knights of Columbus, Supreme Knight James A. "We can tolerate any reasonable difference of opinion," he said, "but we must not tolerate reflections on our loyalty.

The Supreme Knight in presenting the compliments of the Knights of Columbus internationally, to the United States and Canada, Mr. Flaherty said:

WASHINGTON, CITY OF MOURNING, AWAITS ITS DEAD CHIEF

PLANS FOR FUNERAL COMPLETE

By GEORGE W. HINMAN, JR.
Universal Service

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Capital of the Nation, a silent city, today receives its dead.

Leaders in world affairs will forget all save the homage due a beloved chief.

When the special train on which President Harding left Washington so hopefully barely six weeks ago returns again at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon it will be met by a new President, Calvin Coolidge.

Beside Mr. Coolidge with heads bowed in sadness will stand his military aide, Colonel Sherrill, members of the Cabinet, Chief Justice Taft of the Supreme Court, and Senator Cummins, president pro-tempore of the Senate. Speaker Gillett of the House will be at the train.

TO THE CAISSON

Twelve defenders of the nation—soldiers, sailors and marines—will take the casket from the train through the last entrance of the railroad station to the draped caisson waiting to take the remains of Warren Gamaliel Harding to the great White House, [illegible] from a modest Middle Western home.

As the casket reaches the entrance, the United States Marine Band will play a dirge and the military escort of cavalry and field artillery will be brought to "Present."

The twelve bearers will place the casket on the caisson, the troops will be brought to "carry sabers," and the escort will move off to the White House with President Coolidge and his party immediately behind the caisson. Two troops of cavalry will move in advance, then will come the caisson and the official party, and finally will pass the third troop of cavalry.

LANE OF MOURNERS

Through the sunny streets of mourners along the famous avenue of Pennsylvania avenue, to the White House shadowed by the great monument to George Washington, will move the solemn procession.

Such will be the official picture—but there will be another scene, without pomp, without ceremony, simple and saddened by pathos.

As the nation takes from her the body of a beloved husband, Mrs. Harding, with a small party of most intimate friends, will slip quietly away, and will be taken inconspicuously to the White House. There in the home where she was loved so fondly as first lady of the land, she will be received by Mrs. Coolidge and the wives of members of the Cabinet.

Then as Mrs. Harding waits, the slower motion cavalry escort with the body of the dead chief executive will approach from Pennsylvania avenue. As the troops reach the entrance to the White House grounds they will swing from column into line in front of the great Treasury building and come to "present" while the caisson moves through the gateway.

INTO WHITE HOUSE

So will the caisson, followed by President Coolidge and his party, enter the White House grounds and come to a halt before the great white entrance that Warren Harding knew so well. The twelve bearers will tenderly raise the casket bearing their beloved commander-in-chief and carry it into the East Room of the White House. There it will rest, where once rested the remains of Abraham Lincoln and William McKinley.

Within the East Room, the first wreath to be placed on the bier will be Mrs. Harding's own. There will be, also, a wreath from the President and Mrs. Coolidge, one from the Supreme Court put in place by Chief Justice Taft, one from Congress, and others from the heads of State and foreign governments. No other wreaths, except those from Mrs. Harding's intimate personal friends, will be received at the White House.

TO THE CAPITOL

Then to the White House once [illegible] o'clock on Wednesday morning, the nation will move the body of Warren Harding, with due solemnity. Promptly at that hour the bearers again will carry the casket through the glass doors to the waiting caisson.

As the body passes through the doorway, a blast of the bugle will bring to "attention" the great military escort formed along Pennsylvania avenue before the White House grounds. There will be another blast, and the troops will be brought to "present." A third sounding of the bugle will signal the placing of the casket on the caisson; the troops will be brought to "order," and at a final signal the escort will swing into column and move off toward the Capitol.

Once again, the caisson will move along Pennsylvania avenue, this time in the direction of the massive white structure where Warren Harding pursued the service of the nation. The troops will swing on by, and form in mass facing the east entrance of the Capitol. The caisson will come to a halt at the foot of the east steps to the Capitol, where the United States Army band will be formed.

UNDER THE DOME

Again the twelve fighting men will lift the casket from the caisson as the band sounds its dirge and the massed troops stand rigidly at "present." The body of the dead President will be borne through a military guard of honor into the Rotunda beneath the Capitol dome.

There in the Rotunda, the Nation will hold religious services for its departed chief, and then the doors will be thrown open to the public as the body lies in state surrounded by a guard of honor made up of non-commissioned officers belonging to the army, navy and marine corps. That guard will remain in position until the remains are taken from the Capitol to the railroad station.

At six o'clock on Wednesday evening, a detachment of mounted troops will escort the body to the station through ranks of infantry, marines and sailors formed along the line of march. As the remains of the Commander-in-Chief pass by, each organization will be brought to "present" in a final salute.

LAST FAREWELL

The mounted escort of cavalry and field artillery will stand at "present" outside the east entrance of the Capitol as the twelve bearers carry the casket to the caisson. The escort then will move by the most direct route to the railroad station, where it will be formed in line and again stand at "present" while the caisson passes.

At the station, Washington will say farewell to Warren Gamaliel Harding, Senator, President, and beloved man.

'If Cal Says He'll Do a Thing He'll Do It,' Dad Says, Sizing Up Son

By C[illegible]RLES O. POWER

Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 7.—Here is the measure of President Coolidge's character by his father, John C. Coolidge of Plymouth:

"If Cal says he will do a thing he will do it. If he says he will not do a thing he will not do it."

The father of the President pondered for a minute, as we conversed on his piazza, and added this to the measure:

"I do not mean to say by that that Cal is pig-headed or won't listen to reason. What I do mean is that he will not make decisions hastily but will give careful thought and study to matters before he answers them, and then will stand by what he says."

The little home of the Coolidge family in the heart of the Green Mountains is surrounded by special writers. The 78 years old sire of the first citizen of the United States is bearing up under the demands of the magazine specialists and the sob sisters very well.

J. C. Coolidge

CAN'T FOOL "CAL'S" FATHER.

Although bothered by some of the conversations made by them he refuses to get riled up but takes them as they come in the hammock on the front porch and answers as well [illegible] "good boy." He has heard things about Cal's boyhood that he never dreamed of. Most of them make him smile and some that is untrue or fictitious receives his O. K.

As rugged in his honesty as the hills that come down to the farm in the Notch to those of the fairy tales of the dreamers and sisters from that lot town who think they have a [illegible] to build a new Cal Coolidge. And then, calmly and patiently, he tells them they are all wrong and that he will not be a party to their designs.

He will not bring about his distinguished son just because of what reporters [illegible] has reached his exalted station. But he will say the things about his son's wife. Mention of her brings out a quick tribute to the mother of his grandsons. Like most of the old stock New Englanders he has no use for superlatives. [illegible] is good or is bad will [illegible] and when he departs from that rule to say a person is splendid he [illegible] in a great compliment.

HIGH PRAISE FOR SON'S WIFE.

"She is a splendid woman, wife and mother," is the way he referred to Mrs. Coolidge.

[illegible]

"Cal would not want me to brag about him, either as boy or man. As a matter of fact he was just the average boy in a Vermont farming community. He was not raised for anything special above the other boys. He was a good boy. So were the other boys for that matter. He had no great adventures and no unusual [illegible]. He went barefoot [illegible] stubbed his toe like other boys did and once he broke his arm, as did many other boys have done.

USED TO "SKIN THE CAT."

"He used to have a trapeze rigged up in one of the rooms and every morning he would exercise his arms by pulling himself up a certain number of times and skin the cat—[illegible].

"One day he fell and broke his arm. That was not an unusual thing for a boy to do. The boys used to play ball still more for exercise than sport. Cal was not much of a ball player but neither were the other boys. He seemed to like to work on the farm and was a good hand as a youngster. He could do all kinds of farm work. He never shirked and he never made a fuss about it.

"Boys around here in his time did not have much time for the sports that were popular in larger places. They worked. I do not say that Cal and the other boys were not a bit mischievous at times but they never did anything [illegible]. When he was a youngster I was doing the sheriffing around here. That may have had some effect and may have been the reason we turned out so many good boys around here."

Col. Coolidge smiled as he said that and there was a kindly twinkle in his eyes as if to explain and negative the self compliment.

JUST PLAIN 'BOY.'

"Honestly, I cannot find any striking features of his childhood or his boyhood that are not the usual run of the average boy's career. Cal was just boy as boys grew up here. He was a good student. He loved to read. Two things I liked about him when he was a boy. He read good books and did not waste his time on trash. Best of all he was dependable always. You could depend upon his word or his promise. If I told him I wanted a certain thing done I never had to remind him and I never had to worry about it. I knew it would be done and done thoroughly. It seems to me he has always been that way and I have faith he always will be.

"While I would not brag about him and he would not like it if I should so far forget myself as to do so, I think I may be pardoned for saying that I am very proud of my son. I think he will make a good President and I am sure he will try to do only what is right and best for our country."

Col. Coolidge would not talk about "Coolidge luck." He smiled when it was mentioned, but would make no comment. From little remarks one could not help but draw the conclusion that his creed holds that whatever is is right. Speaking of the popular impression that Cal is cold and calculating he admitted that Cal always had been "thoughtful" and very quietly added, "He loved his mother." That simple sentence seemed to carry the impression that the old gentleman approved real affection rather than effusiveness.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN E. BOSTON SQUARE

Lawrence J. Flaherty Post, American Legion No. [illegible], East Boston, will hold memorial services in tribute to the late President Harding in William C. Kelley square, formerly Central square, East Boston, Friday at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Michael F. McPhee, chaplain of the post, is chairman of the committee arranging for the service. Among those asked to speak are the Rev. Fr. James H. O'Neill of the Sacred Heart Church, East Boston, the Rev. W. Dewees Roberts of St. John's Episcopal Church, East Boston, and City Councilor William C. S. Healy.

BODY TO REMAIN IN RECEIVING VAULT

Marion, O., Aug. 7 (A.P.)—President Harding will not be buried beside his mother and sister in the Marion Cemetery. His body, after the services here Friday afternoon, will be placed in the receiving vault at the cemetery and held there pending the erection of a mausoleum to receive it.

This was part of the funeral arrangements agreed to by Mrs. Harding, as communicated to Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., the President's brother, and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, who boarded the funeral train west of Chicago yesterday.

The funeral plans approved by Mrs. Harding call for the utmost simplicity. Rev. G. M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, the late President's place of worship when in Marion, will conduct the service.

Among the tentative plans vetoed by Mrs. Harding was for Troop B, Ohio National Guard Cavalry, to act as an honorary escort at the funeral. The troops will attend the funeral, but will not act as escort. This was said to be in keeping with Mrs. Harding's request that no military display be made at the funeral services conducted here.

AT FATHER'S HOME

Mrs. Harding's plans call for the body to lie in state at the home of his father from soon after its arrival Thursday morning, till nine or ten o'clock that night and again for a few hours Friday forenoon. She would not approve tentative plans for the body to lie in state at the Marion County Courthouse.

The funeral service at the Harding home will be conducted at 3 p. m. Friday. Detailed funeral plans, typewritten and approved by Mrs. Harding, will be placed in the hands of Attorney Hoke Donithen, chairman of the general committee on funeral arrangements, by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, this morning.

The plans approved by Mrs. Harding, are contingent, however, upon the condition of the body on its arrival from Washington. The coffin, it was said, had not been opened during the trip across the continent and would not be until it reached Washington.

The choir of Trinity Baptist Church will sing the President's favorite hymns at the service.

WANTED SIMPLE RITES

The body will be borne in a hearse from the funeral train to the Harding home and from the home to the cemetery. No caisson will be used.

The simple funeral was said to have been the late President's wish and this desire will be carried out as nearly as humanly possible to do so.

to deal with the coal situation. But if the operators and miners do not agree and precipitate either a lockout or a strike, the President will be prepared to take hold of the situation with a firm hand.

Boston Is Unable to Purchase Coal Supply

An attempt of the city to buy 50,000 tons of anthracite coal direct at the mines to be sold to the public at cost, in the event of a coal shortage this Winter, has met with failure.

Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the supply department, who was sent to the coal fields by Mayor Curley a week ago for that purpose, has reported that because of the schedules being already made up for the year, there is no coal for sale.

WOULD RESTRICT SALES.

Mr. Rock says that he has been informed by the various producers that the dealers in Boston have been receiving their full quota of anthracite coal based on their 1921 tonnage, which was the last normal coal year.

He also states that this statement has been borne out by figures received from the State Fuel Commissioner Eugene Hultman. In summing up Mr. Rock makes two suggestions:

That Mayor Curley request the various coal dealers in Boston to restrict the deliveries of coal to the consumer to two tons during the month of August, which would prevent the hoarding of coal by individuals and also insure a more equitable distribution among consumers.

That Mayor Curley call a meeting of the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts, of which he is president, to consider a possible fuel shortage so that plans may be made to purchase 200,000 tons of Welsh anthracite coal at a price that would enable the various municipalities of New England to sell this coal direct to the public at a fair price lower than that now being charged at retail for American anthracite coal.

BETTER HEAT IN WELSH.

Mr. Rock points out that Welsh anthracite coal is superior in heating qualities to American anthracite coal and can be purchased alongside any Atlantic seaport at a more attractive price than that charged for American anthracite coal.

BOSTON STORES TO CLOSE ALL DAY FRIDAY

In order that the Boston Chamber of Commerce may show respect to the memory of the late President Harding and concur with the proclamations of President Coolidge and Governor Cox, the executive offices of the Chamber will be closed all day on Friday, August 10, the day of the funeral.

All committees and bureaus, the Retail Trade Board, the Grain Board and the Maritime Association will suspend business.

The Retail Trade Board of the Chamber also announced that the retail stores of all its members will be closed all day. This decision was on recommendation of this special committee: Chairman, S. St. John Morgan of Lamson & Hubbard Company; Robert W. Maynard of R. H. Stearns Company; George E. Johnson of R. H. White Company; George W. Mitton of Jordan Marsh Company and Louis E. Kirstein of William Filene's Sons Company.

Retail merchants throughout the State will close all day, according to L. A. Hansen, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Retail Merchants' Association.

R. G. Larsen, president of the Boston Theatre Managers' Association and of the Allied Theatres of Massachusetts, announces that all theatres in Massachusetts will be closed Friday afternoon.

PARIS FASHION BENDS WOMAN'S FIGURE IN ZIG-ZAG EFFECT

NATURAL CURVES DISAPPEAR IN 'DROOPING WILLOW' LINES

By C. F. BERTELLI
Universal Service Cable.

Paris, Aug. 7.—The healthy, straight figure is hopelessly out of date.

Paris fashion makers decree that the fashionable women this year must resemble, as nearly as possible, the letter "S."

The head must be slightly bent forward, the [illegible] also being followed by the shoulders, but the small of the back must be tilted sharply backward from the hips, while the middle of the body must be poised decidedly forward.

ZIG-ZAG EFFECT.

The knees will be gracefully bent and the feet resting on tiptoes with the highest possible heels will complete a zig-zag effect that will positively be bewildering.

Paton states that twenty minutes of daily exercise before the morning bath will soon accustom an otherwise strong and healthy girl to the novel posture which achieves the remarkable end of obliterating all natural curves, giving a "gracefully slim" appearance to the devotees of next Winter's models.

Dressmakers who have already exhibited new collections all agree upon the "drooping willow figure." They also agree that the time of the simple gown is over. After closing the books for the last year they unanimously cheered the suggestion to discourage anything that is not expensive.

SIMPLE DRESSES GONE.

Printed calico, organdies, and the old-fashioned simple dresses are declared as dead as a door nail.

Silks, rich velvets, silver and gold cloth, with rare fur for trimmings, and fur coats coupled with gorgeous choice embroidery and old lace, and damask of wondrous coloring and design, will be the keynote of the Fall and Winter seasons for New York and other fashionable centres.

North Easton, Aug. 7.—Although [illegible] J. Hanlon, town [illegible] treasurer and tax collector is still missing, no shortage in his [illegible] has been revealed thus far, according to Charles Andrews, spokesman for the Board of Selectmen.

It was at first reported that $12,[illegible] was missing, but that is denied by town authorities.

Auditors are still on the books and the work will not be completed for about two weeks. No application has been made for a warrant for Hanlon's arrest and his entire affair is veiled in mystery.

Hanlon a week ago advised his assistant, Miss Winifred Cunningham, that he was going to Boston and expected to be back in a day or two. Simultaneously he told his wife he was off for a few days' vacation. Some of the townspeople fear he may have been the victim of foul play.

Miss Cunningham is serving as temporary treasurer.

WESTBORO GIRL TRIES SUICIDE IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 7.—Tired of "Main Street," Florence Kennedy, seventeen years old, of No. 28 Main street, Westboro, Mass., left her home a week ago and came to New York.

But here more obstacles presented themselves and, her funds reduced to ten cents, she became despondent and attempted suicide by drinking iodine.

The girl, who is pretty and apparently from a home of refinement, grew tired, she is quoted as saying, of her home town and desired to live in the city and to make her own way. She came to New York by train. Her savings proved not enough to tide her over during a disheartening search for employment.

Each day she looked for work and about at night on park benches to save expenses, she said. She told the police she was afraid to return home, [illegible] and decided suicide was the only course open to her.

While in a delirious state at the hospital the girl called continually for her mother. The police have notified her parents.

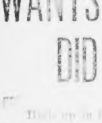
MRS. REID FIGHTS DOPE FOR "WALLIE"

WANTS TO FEEL THAT HE DID NOT DIE IN VAIN

BY JO SWERLING.



Juanita Hansen.

MRS. "WALLIE" REID

"I'm going to try to cover every large city in the country," she said Monday. Use talked to thousands and thousands of people. It has been hard work, but if, out of the thousands I have talked to, there has been only one who has been saved from the effects of dope, I feel that it hasn't all been in vain.

DOPE CLAIMED "WALLY."

"I want to give a message today to young girls, particularly. This is my message:

LIKENED TO SNAKE.

"Suppose that you and your friends went to the country for an outing and, in passing through a field, came upon a copperhead snake, one of the most poisonous of reptiles. What would you do? Pick it up and fondle it? Not by any means. You would have one of the fellows kill it. And you would experience a great relief and feel very grateful to the man who had destroyed the snake.

"Now suppose that you went to a party in the city, and that a finely dressed young man came to and politely said: 'I have something here that will make you feel very happy. It is absolutely harmless—just a little drug. I have been using it for years and it hasn't hurt me a bit. Won't you try some of it?

"What would you do? What do you believe you ought to do? I will tell you what you should not make an outcry and tell him he was a monster. You should be perfectly calm.

HAVE TEMPTER JAILED.

"Just refuse his offer emphatically, leave him in a few moments and then go out and get a policeman and have this snake viper locked up. The viper he is, just as much as the copperhead snake, and he should not be given the chance to strike another victim.

"I wish every young girl in the world could understand the dangers of drug addiction. It is only by telling that we are enabled to solve the many problems of life. Algebra seems like a Chinese puzzle until its mysteries have been mastered and then the student wonders why he was not able to understand it. The same thing applies to everything in life.

"A debutante goes to a party for the first time and makes a few blunders that shame her tremendously. But a year later she finds herself quite well poised, fairly well out joy of life which is born of self confidence and proper conduct. She looks back upon her first party and is amazed at its crudeness—at her use of the unknown due to lack of experience.

CONSCIENCE WARNS.

"There is a reason for this fear of the unknown, even in trivial matters. It is our better selves within us, constantly on the alert, calling upon us to beware—to beware of mistakes, of things we do not understand. Our better self is our conscience, a sentry of spiritual origin that never sleeps and never makes mistakes. Sometimes we even curse the sentry and permit a stranger or foe—a stranger posing as a friend. How often have we deeply regretted such an action!

"The stranger menacing all of us today is the narcotic drug. Those introducing the strangers will say that it is absolutely harmless and can be dismissed at any time. But your own conscience will warn you otherwise. Follow that guidance and don't risk taking into your lives something that will wreck them.

"Most drug addiction is the result of continued though unnecessary administration in times of great need, either of pain or illness, but there is some of it due to ignorant fun-loving youth seeking the new experience. Youngsters, watch your step."

WILL CARRY ON.

"That," said Dorothy Divenport Reid, "is my message. Do you think anybody will heed it?"

She went to the window. The skywriter was busy again. The last message of maybe half an hour had faded, but here it was again, the same message.

"It's like that sky-message," said Dorothy. "His first one fades. Even now, as we look, this one is fading. But he will go up again and again, and he will write his message, again and again, until what he writes will penetrate into the consciousness of those who run and read.

"That is why I shall keep on. I want to feel that Wallie didn't die in vain."

In tomorrow's Boston American Mrs. Reid will amplify her warning concerning the danger of drugs. Watch for the second article in this series.

WALSH TO DELIVER FITCHBURG EULOGY

Fitchburg, Aug. 7.—Tomorrow will do honor to the memory of the late President Harding in Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Crocker Field. Mayor John E. Fallon has arranged a public memorial service at Crocker Field. The Rev. Francis W. Gibbs, pastor of the Universalist Church will offer prayer. U. S. Senator David I. Walsh will give the principal address. There will be community singing and the Fitchburg Military Band will play. All business will be suspended throughout the city.

RHINE SOCIALISTS BALK AT REPUBLIC

Cologne, Aug. 7.—Socialists from all parts of the Rhineland in conference here have passed resolutions urging the German government to seek a peaceful settlement of the Ruhr problem.

Pressing the government to do its best to bring an end to the occupation of the Ruhr, the conference condemned the efforts now under way to create a Rhineland republic.

LAST CALL FOR CHARMING GIRL ENTRANTS

Last call for entries in the Boston American's Charming Girl tournament!

The tournament to determine who is the most charming girl in Greater Boston ends at noon tomorrow. When the last stroke of twelve comes not another entry will be accepted. Every person who plans to enter the contest or who desires to nominate some friend for the week's free trip to Atlantic City during pageant week MUST have the photograph in the Boston American office at noon.

No exceptions will be made to this rule as the Boston American has given everybody fair warning for several days as to the closing hour. If photographs are not in the American office by twelve o'clock tomorrow prospective contestants will have no one to blame but themselves. No alibis will be accepted. If you have not entered and wish to, don't trust the mail service, but deliver your photographs in person or have some friend take it in.

The Boston American will announce the names of the judges tomorrow. Three of them are artists of world-wide prominence who live in Boston. The other is a leader in American art circles. When the entrants learn the identity of these judges they will realize the high plane on which this tournament is being conducted. Seldom has such a group of leaders in the world of art been assembled in this country for such a purpose.

They are to judge the contestants strictly on merit. Early tomorrow afternoon they will inspect all the photographs of bewitching girls that have been sent in. They will select twenty-five of the photographs which indicate charm in the subjects. Then they will give the names and addresses to the Charming Girl Editor and he will notify the twenty-five young women to appear at a certain place Thursday afternoon or evening. The judges will make a personal inspection of the young women at that place and will choose the winner from among them.

The winner of the Boston American tournament will compete against 60 charmers from other cities for the national beauty title of "Miss America" which also carries with it a $5,000 gold trophy. She will participate in the Bathing Beauty parade, rolling chair parade and all the other big features of the spectacular pageant which is to be attended by thousands of people from all parts of the country.

So, girls, if you think you are charming or have a girl friend who is, get busy NOW. It will be too late after noon tomorrow.

THREE MORE BEAUTIES ENTER CONTEST

DOCTORS OVERLOOK SLIVERS IN SKULL

Marlboro, Aug. 7.—After an auto accident a month ago, Martin J. Lynch, a former star Northwestern University athlete, employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, was discharged from the hospital apparently recovered. After a few days at his home here, he resumed his work. He complained of severe pains and again visited the hospital where two wooden slivers were found and removed from the skull.

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. Nellie Hendricks, 49 years old, of No. 5[illegible] Columbus Avenue, was treated at the City Hospital for cuts and bruises which she suffered when struck by an automobile operated by Samuel Pinet of No. [illegible] Green street, West End. Her inattention when she noticed the automobile approaching on Massachusetts Avenue at Tremont Street is said by the police to have been the cause of the accident. Her condition is not serious.

GAS ENGINE SETS LEXINGTON FIRE

Firemen called to the farm of Rupert H. Stevens, at No. 38 Utica street, Lexington, found the shed that housed it afire. As Stevens' farm buildings were threatened a second alarm was sounded. The shed was destroyed. It is thought that backfire from the engine caused the fire.

BOWER SLAYER NOW HUNTED IN CANADA

The search for Thomas Kirkland, ex-oysterman and Tennessee mountaineer, named by Barney Banks, Lawrence taxi driver, as the man who shot and killed Patrolman Arthur J. Bower of Methuen, has extended to Canada.

The police of Montreal and other Canadian cities have been asked to search for the missing Kirkland, who, according to Banks, said "You go back to Lawrence. I am going to Canada," a short time after Bower met his death.

While the authorities are not yet willing to accept "Kirkland" as anything but another effort on the part of Banks to win leniency by "confessions" they are, nevertheless, working to prove or disprove the reality of the man.

The police are also looking up the whereabouts of three Connecticut gunmen, known as rum-runners, who operated a road house near Methuen and also in Providence. One of the trio was in Lawrence on the night of the murder.

Bride-to-Be On Train That Kills Waiting Fiance

Franklin, N. H., Aug. 7.—While he was still waiting for the train bearing his bride-to-be to her home from Lowell, George Prince, twenty-four years old, a mill employe, was struck by the train and died from his injuries. His skull was found to be fractured and he died an hour afterward. A Catholic priest on the train administered the last rites of the church to the dying man.

Miss Jeannette Brosseau, the prospective bride, was prostrated by the announcement that her intended husband had been struck by the train she had alighted from.

COOLIDGE WINS WILSON PROMISE

Washington, Aug. 7.—Washington leaders have been heard in many expressions of admiration of President Coolidge's clever stroke in obtaining from Former President Wilson his promise to participate in the Harding funeral procession.

Woodrow Wilson

It had been semi-officially announced that Mr. Wilson's condition would not permit him to appear, but a letter from him assured Mr. Coolidge that he and Mrs. Wilson and probably his personal physician, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, will be glad to have a place reserved for them.

'FRAMEUP,' CRIES WIFE OF HAVERHILL PHYSICIAN

NOW SHE'LL SUE FOR DIVORCE

Angered When Her Husband, Trapped With Girl, Is Freed by Court

Haverhill, Aug. 7—Mrs. Helen Morris, wife of Dr. Abraham H. Morris, former city physician, who, with Miss Alice Mansfield, was discharged in Central District Court on statutory charges, before departing for her mother's home in Naples, Me., said she would institute divorce proceedings against her husband immediately.

She plans to bring back her two sons, whom she will leave in the doctor, but will keep her ten-year-old daughter, Ellen.

"On my freedom looks good," she said. "I've failed to get enough evidence to get a divorce and I'll tell my story to a judge in the divorce court. I wanted to testify against my husband today, but they wouldn't let me.

"He can have his pretty little nurse. I gave her back her negligee which she stepped out of when we raided the home, for I can get more, but the doctor will have to buy hers and he needs the money to support his children."

The dismissal of the case against her husband and Miss Mansfield aggrieved Mrs. Morris. She declared it was "a frame-up."

"I made him and now I'll break him. He only married me because he thought I had money," she said.

Dr. Morris refuses to discuss the situation and Miss Mansfield is equally reticent. Miss Mansfield, asked if she was to marry the doctor, replied:

"How do I know, ask the doctor."

WOBURN DELAYS DEVER RECEPTION

Woburn, Aug. 7—The reception to Hon. William A. Dever, Mayor of Chicago, originally planned by his old-time comrades and neighbors today at the house of Mayor Bernard J. Golden, has been postponed until 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. This change has been made necessary because Mayor Dever will go to Washington, to attend the funeral services for President Harding.

HUB COMMUTERS HELD UP BY WRECKS

Hundreds of commuters dependent on the Boston & Maine railroad were delayed in reaching Boston today because of the wreck of a nine-car local train at Kendall Green station in Waltham. Traffic on both tracks was tied up several hours by the derailment, caused by the breaking of a truck on one of the cars. The ice train was headed for Boston.

On the Milford branch of the Boston & Albany road today an accident to the locomotive at Holliston on the 6 a. m. standard time from Milford, delayed that heavy train one hour.

TWO HURT AS AUTO HITS 1-MAN TROLLEY

Dr. Wilbur M. Paige, forty-one years old, of No. 165 Washington street, Lynn, was seriously hurt when his automobile crashed into a one-man street car on Linwood road, at North Federal and Walnut streets, Lynn. John Doty, a chauffeur, of No. 14 Ellis street, Lynn, was also injured. Both were thrown out of the car. Witnesses said that the doctor's car turned the corner from Myrtle street at a fast rate of speed.

AUTOMOBILE HITS SOUTH END CHILD

Faith Lockhart, three years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lockhart, of No. 23 Greenwich Park, South End, was seriously injured when she was struck by an automobile operated by C. W. Harper of Dorchester, while playing in front of her home. She was rushed to the City Hospital, suffering from numerous contusions and cuts and probable internal injuries.

SOMERVILLE AUTO HITS SO. END BOY

Coleman Katz, five years old, of No. 38 Seneca street, South End, was knocked down by an automobile operated by Fred Bidwell, No. 31 Radcliffe road, Somerville, as he was crossing Washington street in front of the Columbia Theatre. He was treated at City Hospital. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Katz.

ALLEGED HAVERHILL 'VAMP' IN COURT

MISS ALICE MANSFIELD

The case against the Haverhill nurse and Dr. A. H. Morris, accused by the latter's wife after a raid, was dropped in court. Mrs. Morris says a divorce will be her next move.

Gay University Life Is Scorched by Author

Chicago, Aug. 6—"Grey Towers," an anonymous novel published this week, is causing unusual excitement at the University of Chicago.

It was written, presumably, by a former teacher of English in the university, and the author evidently is well informed on conditions in the big school.

The author leans into the campus paddle without ceremony and the splash she has created is prodigious.

No one escapes her pen, from the President to junior instructors. Some of the passages that are causing hot comment at the school are "dead wood" intentionally sent to the offices of the men mentioned.

"The problems one 'prof' assigns every year may be obtained for $25, a notebook from fellows who have had the course."

"None but an Ittobic beard of trustees would have appointed Her the Dean of Women to the position of councillor to the girls in college."

"Prexy," in his dotage, plays with the idea of new buildings as a model child with his toys. Every quarter he lets great teachers leave for other universities because he would neither raise their salaries nor give them the advancement rank they deserved."

The author divides members of the faculty in two classes—bucolic intellectual bigots and posing esthetes. Devastating shots are taken at the alleged faculty petting parties and a description is given of the heroine's adventures with a professor in his office.

IRISH WOMEN IN RIOT AT LABOR CONGRESS

By DENIS O'CONNELL

Dublin, Aug. 7—Irish women caused riotous scenes at the opening of the Irish Trade and Labor Congress.

Mrs. Despard, sister of Field Marshal French, who is the Earl Ypres, Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington, widow of the Irish poet who was slain during the early stages of the Irish rebellion, and Maude Gonne McBride, known as the "Irish Joan of Arc," led a riotous crowd of men and women shouting "release of prisoners," as the Congress opened.

Mrs. Skeffington James Larkin

Although the women bitterly attacked the delegates they failed to achieve their object of preventing the session, as the meeting lasted for several hours, was held in secret.

A large force of police dispersed the mob from the area in front of the Mansion House. Scores of women, who were charged by Chairman O'Duffy of the Congress with acting in concert with James Larkin in an attempt to disrupt the organization, hissed the delegates as they left the hall at the end of the first session.

PILGRIM PLAY AT PLYMOUTH OPENS

Plymouth, Aug. 7—The Pilgrim Progress, which was a much appreciated feature during the Pilgrim centenary period of 1921, and which was presented for a limited engagement of one week during that season this year, had its initial production this week Monday, and will be repeated during the week every day at 2 o'clock.

2 BABIES, LOCKED IN HOME, DIE IN FIRE

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 7—Two children were burned to death when their mother, Mrs. Frank Gatewood, left them locked in her third floor home to go to a store. The children were Frank Gatewood, Jr., 3, and Mabelle, 18 months.

AUTOIST IS FOUND CRUSHED TO DEATH

Palmer, Aug. 7—William Bell, 55, of Wales, was found dead on the Bramford road near Feeke's Mills. Bell's head was crushed as the result of an automobile accident earlier in the day. In the car with Bell were Martin Hubbard of Palmer, who sustained a broken leg, and William A. Winsburg of No. 26 Willard avenue, Springfield, driver of the car. The latter was badly cut about the arms and legs. Winsburg was arrested, charged with manslaughter.

LYNN COPS HALT ONRUSH OF 5 WILD HORSES

Five black riderless horses, their hoofs clattering on the pavements, came galloping out of the night along Broadway, Lynn, near the Lynn Marshes.

Panic rushed to the windows. Motorists frantically steered for the side of the roads as the horses stampeded past them.

HALTED BY COPS.

Patrolmen Henry Hagen and Melvin G. Chadwell, summoned to the scene, threw themselves in the path of the oncoming horses, and halted them, although both were dragged many feet.

The patrolmen were then confronted by a mystery. Who were the drivers? A search along Broadway brought them to one Frank Proctor, address unknown, and an unidentified man who was staggering along the road mumbling about "horses which had run away."

Both men were so drunk they were unable to give their names. Identification of Proctor was made through a card in his pocket.

CAME FROM BOSTON.

Further inquiry disclosed that Proctor and the unidentified man had left the Harris Livery Stable, Boston, to deliver the five horses to a Peabody livery stable. On the way they imbibed too freely of Lynn moonshine.

They became abusive to the horses, witnesses along the route say, with the result that the indignant animals took to their heels and left the men reeling in the middle of the road.

The horse events are now sobering up in the Lynn jail. The animals were housed in a Lynn livery stable.

BOLD RUM RUNNERS LAND CARGOES ON SHORES OF CAPE COD

BUZZARD'S BAY SCENE OF TRAFFIC

Under the Cover of Darkness Motor Boats Bring Liquor From Vessels to Trucks

By WARREN FIELD.

Off Cape Cd, but well within the three-mile limit established by international law, ships of the Atlantic rum-running fleet are plying their trade. More than that, some of them are boldly discharging their illicit cargoes under the noses of thousands of Summer visitors on Buzzard's Bay.

Vacationists have seen many things, explainable only by the presence of illegal rum traffic. There have been vague rumors for months that a portion of the fleet was lying off No Man's Land, the island outpost of Martha's Vineyard. There have been other rumors, mysterious but by no means vague, that along the coast between Narragansett Pier and Newport on the west and Wareham and Onset on the northeast the cargoes were being transferred to smaller vessels and landed.

IN INKY BLACKNESS.

Two weeks ago, under cover of a northwest storm, a landing was made not two miles from the Summer settlement at Swift's Beach. The work was accomplished in an inky blackness, with a heavy wind and light rain.

First indications of the presence of the rum ship was a Coston light that split the darkness approximately halfway between the Great Hill House, and Galen L. Stone estate at Marion and the Wing's Neck Light.

The vessel lay inside the lane of shipping that extends from the mouth of Cape Cod Canal almost on a direct line to Mashan Point. She showed no lights. The rocket flared only once, close down to the water. It was close to midnight then; none but a person either by accident close at hand or loosely watching for its appearance would have noticed it.

It was answered almost immediately from a point on the Western shore of the bay, a secluded spot, uninhabited, heavily wooded. A powerful searchlight swept the sky twice. Far out in the bay, close by where the rocket had showed, a light burned for a moment, flickered out. From the shore where the searchlight had answered came, dully, the sound of a powerful motor boat. She bulked big and black, not particularly fast, and she ran without lights. She headed outward in the general direction of where the runner lay.

STORM ABATES.

The storm abated somewhat but the pitch darkness remained unbroken. Came at last the sound of the returning power boat; she ran slowly muffled. Close to shore her engine was cut dead; she drifted in. Aboard her showed occasionally the flash of a spot light.

The work of removing the cargo, transporting it ashore, took nearly an hour. It was nearly 3:30 when the work was completed. A motor truck roared in the wood's road the spot is very close to the Marion-New Bedford-Wareham road) and the powerboat shoved her nose seaward.

By daylight the incoming tide had erased many of the signs the smugglers left. But there were many footprints still visible, there were wheel marks of a heavy truck, and there were three quart bottles, broken, two bearing Scotch whiskey labels.

SIGNAL BY ROCKET.

The second landing took place at approximately the same spot as before, following a signal by rocket and searchlight. The landing, however, was made at a point about a mile and a half distant from the first rendezvous at a secluded spot not as accessible to the road.

Where is this liquor going which the rum fleet is discharging along the Buzzards Bay coast? Some of it, no doubt, over the road to Boston. Then, the landing points are not a great drive from New Bedford, Providence and the Rhode Island resorts. One thing is certain: it is being landed for the bootleggers of Southern New England and for New England consumption."

HEARST PARTY SEES MOSCOW FROM AIRSHIP

(Universal Cable.)

Moscow, Aug. 7—Senators Kin, and Ladd, Congressman Frear, Albert A. Johnson, New York agricultural expert, and other members of the American Congressional party, including this correspondent, flew over Moscow in a Soviet airplane.

Senators King and Ladd headed about going up at first and Frear and Johnson made an ascent. When they returned Frear said:

"I would rather fly over Moscow than go up to the top of the Woolworth Building in the express elevator."

Senator King

Frear said that he would like to fly to Petrograd. Both he and Johnson were moved by the bird's eye view of the Moscow Kremlin and churches.

WONDERFUL TRIP.

Senator Ladd had never been up in an airplane, but when he learned that the same pilot recently traversed 5,000 miles to Persia and back across the Black Sea, the Caucasus and the Caspian Sea, he decided to make the trip. After the trip he said:

"It is a magnificent panorama. I would like to have gone further."

Senator Ladd remarked:

"It was a wonderful experience. I shall hope to repeat it."

STUDYING PEOPLE.

The Congressional group, which is investigating conditions in Russia at the invitation of the Hearst newspapers, devoted the day to an inquiry into church conditions. They interviewed Patriarch Tikon and also Father Krasnitsky, head of the Living Church. They are not confining themselves to conferring with officials but are trying to gain an understanding of the mood of the common people.

3 MILLION MARKS FOR $1; NEAR OBLIVION

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Berlin, August 7—The German mark was plunged headlong into the lower depths. It is nearing oblivion.

With one jump it reached the official quotation of 1,670,000 to the dollar and some time after the Reichsbank released for the American dollar which is in a fair way of becoming the national currency of Germany. Some say that 2,000,000 marks was bid.

With the daily doubling and trebling of prices keeping pace with the depreciation, more printing establishments are printing notes day and night. Eight million marks was the daily output for the past few days.

Even with the extraordinary output there is a tremendous shortage of money due to the huge quantities necessary for the transaction of any kind of business.

Today's plunge was attributed to the fact that the Reichsbank took the lid off by rescinding its decree which prohibited the buying and sale of foreign exchange except at the official exchange rate fixed by the bank. The result was an extraordinary scramble for dollar and pounds sterling, everybody trying to invest their worthless marks at any price.

The confusion and chaos increased through the refusal of many business houses to accept the mark in payment for goods.

Gasoline for automobiles is no longer obtainable except with an order.

RESCUER NEARLY DROWNED IN LAKE

Franklin, N. H., Aug. 7—Leo Jameson was stricken with cramps while swimming in Webster Lake and sank three times before Charles, a dry goods merchant, dived to the bottom and brought him to surface.

George became exhausted carrying his burden towards shore and would have drowned, but for Jameson of New York city, who arrived in a boat and got both men aboard.

CADDY, HIT BY BALL, DIES IN 15 MINUTES

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7—Attempting to drive away from a rough on a golf links R. L. Hudgins struck the ball smartly and it struck his caddy, a negro boy, in the temple, inflicting an injury from which the lad died fifteen minutes later. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

PRETTY GIRL, VICTIM OF DRUGS, CHARGES ROBBERY

An attractive girl, about twenty-one years old, who refused to divulge her name, was found lying semi-conscious on the sidewalk at Harrison avenue and Beach street, At the City Hospital, where she was taken by the police, she said that she was lured into a back room of a restaurant in Chinatown and was robbed of $195. After robbing her, she said, they ejected her. The girl also said that she has been a drug addict and has visited local places where drugs are obtained. The police have made a careful investigation of the alleged robbery and deem it false. She has never before been seen in this city, according to the police.

NATICK HUSBAND FINDS WIFE SUICIDE BY GAS

Mrs. Bessie Kramer, forty-four years old, of No. 13½ Wilson street, Natick, committed suicide by inhaling gas. Mrs. Kramer sent her daughter Eva to her father's place of business in Waltham, giving her his dinner to take along. Isaac Kramer, the husband became suspicious, as his wife had never before sent his food. Hurrying to his home in Natick, he found his wife lying dead.

COOLIDGE IS EXPECTED AT SWAMPSCOTT NEXT MONTH

The Summer home of Frank W. Stearns at Little Point, Swampscott, will probably be the Summer White House. Mr. Stearns, who is a millionaire Boston merchant, is now with the new President at the Capital. President Coolidge has visited his Summer home during the past two Summers.

Chief of Police Quinn of the Swampscott police department is already making plans for additional police protection for President Coolidge and say that he has it on good authority that the President will be in Swampscott next month.

STEALS GIRL'S $200 RING AS HE KISSES HER BYE BYE

Worcester, August 7—Edward Mignault of 97 Madison street, visited Hilda Trudell of 83 Lamartine street at her invitation a few nights ago. He kissed her good night while he had her $200 diamond ring tightly clenched in his right hand, having taken the jewel from its depository on a parlor table. Detectives testified that Mignault confessed he stole the ring. He promised to give it back, as his case was filed in Central District Court.

RAILWAY GETS REVERE JITNEY BUS LINE PERMIT

The petition of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railways Company for the introduction of a jitney bus line system in Revere was granted at a meeting of the Revere City Council. A public hearing attended by over 600 irate citizens of Revere, was held about two weeks ago. A member of the Revere City Council was also present. Some of the speakers at the meeting said that the petition should be refused as the railway company has rendered poor service in Revere. They were in favor of the petition submitted by Joseph Hart of the Hart Motor Car Company to operate lines in Revere. Service will be given by the new jitney bus line on Revere, Park avenue and Malden streets with regular schedules.

MILK! SUPPOSE IT WAS LIQUOR?

Barney Zoff's famous milk wagon pair, "Pal," and "Warmer," got shy on Central avenue, Chelsea, for some unaccountable reason and dashed away as Barney was delivering a few quarts of Whiting & Co.'s best milk. When Barney found "Pale" and "Warmer" they were wet and wetter in cellar ruins at No. 105 Maverick street.

If the quarts of milk spilled had been liquor, a statistician figured up, the loss would have been millions. Question: How many quarts were spilled?

BROCKTON WOMAN TO WED FOR THIRD TIME

Brockton, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Alice Mildred Adams of Pleasant street is planning her third trip to the Capitol. Her fiance is Francis E. Hyde, No. 34 Bradford road, Newton Highlands.

In 1913, Mrs. Adams married Henry R. Adams from whom she was divorced the following year. Later she remarried Mr. Adams and once again divorced him in 1922. She is the daughter of James B. Brown, former inspector of plumbing of Brockton and is now employed as secretary in a Boston office.

QUOTA FILLED, 12 FACE DEPORTATION

Twelve aliens, men and women, from remote sections of northern Europe, who arrived here within the past few days, face deportation because the quotas of their nationalities for August have been reached.

More than 500 aliens of various nationalities, part of the crowd arriving here from Europe on Saturday and Sunday, were quartered at the immigration station. Examinations held steadily throughout the day reduced the number to 200 last night and at hearings today many more will be released.

WIFE OF BUTLER WHO ACCUSES MILLIONAIRE

MRS. MORCHISCHEK

Wife of Former German Captain Now Butler. Latter Accuses Millionaire of Plan to Kill Her.

SEARED ON FEET WITH TORCH

Pell's Former Butler Says Clubman Sought to Kill Him

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 7.—John R. Fell, wealthy Philadelphia clubman and poloist and ladies' man, is accused by John Morchischek, his former butler and a former captain in the Imperial German Army, of having ordered the latter's murder, attempted to burn his feet with a torch, and in other ways tried to drive him from the State by intimidation, to conceal Fell's alleged rum-running activities.

Fell ... used by Howard Laity, caretaker at the Carleton Hotel grounds, of entering the Laity home with Bernard Quinn, entering the bedroom of Laity's wife and frightening her so badly that she is now under the care of a physician.

CASE CONTINUED.

The former German ... charges were made in the Second District Court at Wakefield, where the former protege of ex-Governor R. L. Beeckman, his chauffeur Thomas Sheehan and a former patrolman Bernard Quinn, on trial for assault on the ex-butler. The case was continued a week, despite the protest of Attorney Walsh, appearing for the State.

According to Attorney John J. Fitzgerald, counsel for Morchischek, Quinn and Sheehan met Morchischek near the Carleton Hotel grounds late Saturday night, when Morchischek was on his way home, and forced him at revolver point to enter a heavy ... automobile, which took the captive to Fell's home.

Fell and his henchmen met Quinn and his captive, and Fell ordered his men to kill the ex-butler, it is charged. Fell is alleged to have struck the German several times in the face and then to have prepared to apply a torch to the captive's feet to make him swear eternal silence relative to Fell's liquor transactions.

"When I ... of the torch on my feet," Morchischek told the court, "I managed to break loose, and jumped ... into the sea. I swam to Point Judith (three miles distant)."

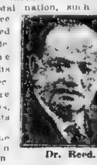
SECRETS OF HEALTH AND SUCCESS

LINES OF DEFENCE AGAINST DISEASE

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.



Dr. Reed.

AN enemy threatens invasion. A coastal nation, such as ours, has three recognized lines of defence. The first is its navy, the second is its shore fortifications, the third is its land forces.

What is true of the nation is true of every individual in the nation.

By day and by night a myriad host, a numberless army, an invisible foe threatens each of us with invasion.

They are the unseen germs that float in the air, swim in the water, lurk in the food, hide in clothing or are buried in the earth.

They have killed the majority—the vast majority—of all who have died.

The beneficent law of evolution by which we have become so adjusted to our environment that we may survive if we but heed the teachings of that law, has provided us, like our nation, with three lines of defence.

Our first line of defence—our "Navy"—consists of our ablutions, our cleanliness—cleanliness of person and clothing. Cleanliness of food by cooking. Cleanliness by processes of sterilization in surgery. Cleanliness by destroying germs when they are under control, by destroying their breeding places; by destroying insects like lice, house flies, mosquitoes and rats that carry germs.

Our second line of defence—our "fortifications"—consists of the scaly layer of our bodies called the epithelium. It covers the skin, the lining membrane of the mouth, throat, lungs, stomach, intestines and other parts of the body. In health the free surface of the epithelium is capable of resisting invasion by germs.

Our third line of defence—our "land forces"—consists of certain "leucocytes." They're our soldiers and they are always on guard. They go marching around through the "natural gates and alleys" of our systems, just looking for trouble.

The moment the enemy gets through the fortifications they are on the spot. You will know it because at that spot there suddenly develops heat, pain, redness and swelling—all caused by the rush of the defenders to the scene of action. The greater the swelling the more the defenders. The more defenders on duty the safer you are. They devour, literally devour, some germs, starve others to death, and cause still others to kill each other by their own poison and to accumulate in the form of pus.

These are the fundamental facts underlying the law of infection. They teach obvious lessons. Strengthen your "Navy" with habits of cleanliness. Strengthen your "fortifications" by preventing the accumulation of secretions. Strengthen your "land forces" by keeping your nutrition always at the highest level.

USE OF TELESCOPE

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"I have a field glass of 2½ inches aperture with which I get a good view of the cluster Praesepe, or the Beehive, in Cancer. I also see the double star Epsilon Lyrae, but my glass is not strong enough to show that each of its stars is itself double. How strong a glass will it take to resolve the double double?—J. D., Roxbury, Mass."

YOU take me back to my early days, [illegible] nights, with the telescope, a thing for whose invention and perfection humanity can never be sufficiently thankful. Of all the instruments contrived by man it has the greatest power of uplift, raising his mind as well as his eyes from the earth to the universe.

The beautiful "double - double star, Epsilon Lyrae, of which you speak, although single to the naked eye—a few with exceptional vision can [illegible] is easily sep[illegible] stars, forming two [illegible] with a telescope of [illegible] aperture and a magnifying power of 100 diameters. But [illegible] observer can be [illegible] success if he has a four-inch telescope and uses, perhaps, a somewhat higher power.

One of the two doubles is a little closer than the other. The distance between the components of [illegible] about three seconds [illegible] four seen all at once [illegible] sight of great beauty.

It has been guessed that Epsilon Lyrae is a quadruple system of gravitationally united suns, the four components revolving in such a way that the members of each pair turn around the centre of gravity between them in a period of something short of a thousand years, while the two pairs revolve around their common centre of gravity in a period of about a million years. This is perhaps possible, but no positive evidence of the existence of these motions has been obtained. It would, however, be accordant with what we know of the revolutions of other similarly linked stars.

Many years ago I had my first telescope, aperture of 3¾ inches, made for me by John Byrne, a self-educated Irishman, who lived in East First street, New York, and who ground and shaped his telescope lenses by "rule-o'-thumb." He had learned the art, but not the science, from the astronomer Lewis M. Rutherford, and the small glasses that he turned out were perhaps as exquisite examples of optical work of that kind as have ever existed. Amateurs still look for them as skilful musicians look for specimens of the work of certain old violin makers.

Byrne tried his glasses at night in his yard fronting on the street, and one of his favorite test objects was just this double-double star in Lyrae that we have been talking of. More than once while my telescope was on the stocks I went up to Byrne's place, at about 1:30 a. m., after the newspaper with which I was connected had gone to press, and spent an hour with him trying the glass on the stars. Only the policeman on the beat saw us, and sometimes he unswung his club, entered the gate and took a look at the celestial objects. The only one that I remember his having been much impressed by was the planet Jupiter. He admired its belts. "Ye kin stick yer club in thim," John told him. "Begorra," he said, "an' what 'ud I do thot for?"

You can get a great deal of pleasure and subject for thought and wonder out of even a two-inch telescope, with manifying powers of from 50 to 100. This Summer you will have both Saturn and Jupiter to see, besides the moon in all her changing phases, and when her light is absent magnificent views of the Milky Way, in its richest portions, in Sagittarius, Scorpio, Ophiuchus, Scutum, Sobieskii, Aquila and Cygnus. Then there is the pair of broad star clusters in Perseus, of which Sir Robert Ball said: "Viewed on a clear night when the moon is absent, they form the most striking celestial spectacle in the northern heavens."

USE CARE IN SHOPPING

—By Loretto C. Lynch—

A Recognized Authority on all Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

THE good housekeeper and her husband who have been awaiting a concession in price before buying that much-needed furniture, will do well to look into the August sales at the shops. The savings range from one-fourth to one-third, and in a few cases, one-half.

No matter how small or how large your contemplated purchase, patronize a good shop. Most people are not judges of furniture, much less so of rugs, and the purchases made in a fly-by-night store rented for a month or two during certain seasons, are ever questionable. The furniture shop that advertises in a reputable newspaper simply must give the customer the merchandise as represented, else the reputable newspaper will refuse to carry its advertising.

The best value I have seen in the way of bedroom furniture to be shown in the August sale, consisted of a double bed, dresser, chiffonier and dressing table, all small enough to fit into a twelve or fourteen foot square bedroom. The wood was sturdy oak, and the finish a lustreless French gray. The price quoted was $89. This, of course, did not include bed, spring or mattress, but seemed extraordinarily cheap, quality considered.

STUMPT?

FROM childhood up, we meet stumps every day of our lives.

They either stump us, or we stump them. The more successful we are in jumping stumps the less are we stumpt by stumps.

The most important stumps to watch are those that stump the maintenance of good health.

When Nature sounds her warning and indicates unmistakably the location of a stump—HEED NATURE.

When the mouth tastes bad, breath is foul, stomach distressed, brain foggy, eye dull, remember Beecham's Pills will clear away the stumps of indigestion, constipation and biliousness.

For 80 years this famous family medicine has stumpt disorders of stomach, liver and bowels to hold their grip on man, woman or child.

Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the opera and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses after the European fashion. Clavering a young friend, Dawiddie, are immediately interested, and Clavering receives a shock, declaring that she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He thinks she may be a daughter. Clavering follows Mary home from the opera and asks her to get into the house as soon as possible. She invites him in and tells him she is the Countess Zattiany. He leaves, determined to meet her and marry her. Clavering invites her to go with him to Sherry's and the opera.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. Lowell Boy Sets Record in English Channel Swim

GIRL QUITS WITH GOAL IN SIGHT

Dover, ...

London, August 7.—The seventh attempt of Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., to swim the English Channel was successful. He covered a distance of 30 miles in 27 hours and 23 minutes.

WOMAN IN HIS WAKE.

GOT JUMP ON TOTH.

Sullivan's three attempts last Summer were not as successful as were his first three attempts.

The Lowell swimmer was accompanied on this trip by ... John J. Conlon of Lowell ... Captain N. Leslie Smith of Winthrop. The latter acted as his pilot in the motor boat which piloted him.

Sullivan's training quarters were set up in Dover, where are also the training quarters of Charles Toth and Sam Richards, the two South Boston swimmers, who are contemplating attempts to swim the channel.

The Lowell man's success was due to a large extent to his experience with the tides, currents and winds. Weather conditions attending his swim were perfect, without which no man could hope to make the swim. Nearing shore, however, the water became turbulent.

Among the obstacles Sullivan had to overcome in making the swim were alkaline water which ... the skin ... choppy water ... sudden squalls, the treacherous quicksands of the Goodwin Shoals and a series of dangerous ledges in a channel known as the Larne.

Encouraging crowds lined the beach to witness the landing and gave the swimmer a great ovation.

ENDURANCE RECORD.

Sullivan was taken to the Casino and given a warm bed. His feat is a new endurance record for swimming. He was in the water five hours longer than any other recorded attempt.

Sullivan was to return to England today on the mail boat.

Charles Toth of Boston, who last year gave up his attempt after a sixteen hour effort, was to essay the feat again today.

(1) Can a spider web coil be used on a flivver set? (2) Can a honeycomb coil be wound successfully at home, and if so, explain how.

J. K. L.

(1) Yes. (2) It may be done, but is a ticklish job. Make a form by driving nails into a wooden disc about an inch and a half in diameter and an inch thick. The wire is wound back and forth on these nails in the form of a honey-comb, and then dipped in just enough shellac to hold the windings in place when the nails are removed.

I have a hundred foot antenna. Also tell me if a 50-turn honeycomb could be used for the secondary of the one-knob control set shown August 2.

J. C.

Hookup requested is shown. A honeycomb of fifty turns would serve as the secondary of the one-knob set if closely coupled with the primary.

SINGLE WIRE BEST

Radio Editor.

I have Westinghouse RC set and have an antenna of two wires about ninety-two feet each. I seem to get two stations at a time, and cannot clear them. Will you kindly advise me if my antenna is too long. I was thinking of having only one wire ninety or ninety-two feet long.

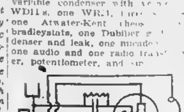
L. W. C.

The single antenna will give you sharper tuning, and sixty feet, better than ninety. A counterpoise in place of ground would also help.

HOOKUP WANTED

Radio Editor:

I have scrapped my ... set and bought other parts ... you publish a hook up for ... strong three tube set ... following parts: Variocoupler ... variable condenser with ... WD11s, one WR21, ... one Atwater-Kent ... bradleystats, one Dubilier ... denser and leak, one micadon ... one audio and one radio transformer, potentiometer, and ...



Can I construct a strong ... the above parts with jacks ... many dry cells are needed to ... a WR21?

M ...

An Armstrong regenerative receiver will not work satisfactorily with R. F. amplification ... up for the parts you mention is shown. J1 is a double circuit ... and J2 is an open circuit ... WR21 requires four dry cells in series.

USES DRY CELLS

Radio Editor:

Could the one tube set printed in the American Aug. 2 be run on dry cell batteries or is a storage battery necessary, and what tube would work best with it? How far would it receive?

W. R.

A dry cell tube will be perfectly satisfactory, either a WD11 or UV199, preferably the latter. Range is a variable quality. It should equal the range of any other regenerative set.

MR. GALLAGHER and MR. SHEAN

THIS Boston American awards each week for original Gallagher & Shean stanzas to the author who sends in the best Gallagher & Shean lyric.

One is selected for publication in this column every day, and on Saturday the selection of the best one is made and a drawing is mailed the winner.

The following, selected from today's entries, is one of the six from which this week's winner will be selected:

O Mr. Gallagher, O Mr. Gallagher,
What seems to be the matter with you nowadays?
Once you were happy and glad
Now you are gloomy and you're sad
And your poor old back stoops more and more each day.
O Mr. Shean, O Mr. Shean
I am greatly in need of sympathy
If it happened two years ago
We could trace the mystery
Would it be rheumatism, Mr. Gallagher?
No, but RUMatism, Mr. Shean.

Try your hand at it. Address your letters to Gallagher & Shean, care of the Boston American, Boston Summer street, Boston, Mass.

CRACKLINGS

A city guy is a chap who's wise to the manufacturer's game of raising sheep with cotton wool.

Being handed a lemon these days isn't so bad if it's surrounded by sugar ice water.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

The Boston American will pay $1 for "Best Joke" published. Address "Best Joke," Boston American.

"Where did you learn those fine principles of yours, at your mother's knee?"

"No, sir, OVER me father."

CARMEN M. CLIFFORD
9 Hammatt rd, Roslindale, Mass.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Boston American will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment in My Life." Address Embarrass.

I called on my dressmaker and saw, for a piece of my mind to her, having my dress finished on Wednesday. Imagine my embarrassment when she said, "You're a day ahead of time; this is Tuesday, tomorrow is Wednesday."

MISS MARIE FAUCON
No. 2561 Mass. ave., No. Cambridge.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston American.

Tripping little once, five years old, to see the birds at Franklin park, seeing a peacock, she said: "Look at that bird with a tail of grass."

MISS BESSIE SACHNIN,
No. 7 Hemlock st., Roxbury, Mass.

$1000 CASH

will be paid by the Boston American for original coloring (in water colors or crayons) of the nationally famous comic characters which NOW appear daily in the Boston American.

This cash rewarded test is put on to introduce our new

Million Marks Now Near the Pre-War Price for One

One million German paper marks can be purchased in the local foreign exchange market for 25 cents, or only 1.2 cents more than the price of a single mark before the war.

This quotation represented an overnight depreciation of 4 to per cent. Saturday's rate was 90 cents.

Commercially, Germany's paper currency has been regarded as worthless for a long time. All business with that country has been done in the currencies of the United States, Great Britain or neutral countries.

FIGURES THAT LIE.

To I. E. R. Waltham.—The comparisons are dangerous which in some stock-selling literature, appear in statistical column form to show the growth to $1,000,000 achieved by $500, originally put into the Ford Company and from six to a score other companies grown large through small beginnings.

Most of these representations of miraculous increases are not founded in fact. An original $500, invested in the Bell Telephone Company, for example, is not now worth $1,000,000, as a comparison table much used in current promotion literature, states. Such figures are deceptive for the following reasons:

1—No account is taken of the fact that $500, invested in a small company which has prospered greatly, was probably one-fiftieth only of the capital which started the business in a careful way, and that good management and fortuitous circumstances, over a long period of years, did the rest.

2—The $500, which you may put into a promotional oil company, invention or manufacturing company, with a capital stock of millions of shares priced at 10c or $1.00 a share, would constitute only a one-thousandth or a ten-thousandth interest.

3—In such a highly capitalized scheme, probably between 25 per cent. and 60 per cent. and even much less—of your money will get into the treasury of the company for actual property, equipment, operation, etc.

4—There is no assurance that the prosperity of the Bell Telephone, the Ford Car, the Mergenthaler Linotype and similar enterprises, will attach to the oil scheme, motor car company, or other industrial venture in which you are urged, by promises of huge returns, to put your savings. Rather should such inferences put you strongly on your guard against being told that men and methods, more than money, make for remarkable business earnings.

READING CO.

To T. U. R., Weymouth.—Reading Co. is sending out notice of special stockholders' meeting to be held October 15, to take action on various matters to carry into the effect the plan of segregation.

Among these will be action on the creation and issuance of a new general and refunding 4½ per cent. mortgage for about $63,000,000, to take up joint general mortgage 4 per cent. bonds of the Reading Co. and Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., the amount being the proportion for which the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. is liable.

Also action will be taken on the proposed merger of the Philadelphia & Reading Co. and twelve other companies into the Reading Co., which becomes the operating carrier.

Action will be taken on sale of the interests of the Reading Co. in the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. and the Reading Iron Co.

Another matter of which action will be taken at this meeting will be the surrender of such rights under the Pennsylvania charter of the Reading Co. as may not be appropriate to a common carrier.

A proxy committee, approved by the court to receive proxies for use at the meeting consists of Edward T. Stotesbury, Agnew T. Dice, Joseph E. Widner, Seward Prosser and Adrian Iselin.

VANADIUM.

To J. H., Medford.—Issue is speculative, paying no dividend. For six months ended June 30, 1923, Vanadium Corporation of America reported net income of $247,131 after depreciation and depletion, equivalent to $1.03 a share earned on 373,324 shares of no par capital stock. This compares with $18,566 or 4 cents a share of no par capital stock. This compares with $18,566 or 4 cents a share of no par capital stock. This compares with $18,566 or 4 cents a share, in the first half of 1922. Income account for six months compares as follows:

By R. A. Brodeur, No. 221 Ash street, Manchester, N. H.

In addition, each week, the Boston American selects fifteen of these jokes, epigrams, nifties and gags and they are reproduced in a motion picture and shown in various theatres of greater Boston. A total of $22 in prizes is awarded the authors of the jokes used on the screen, beginning with a first prize of $5 and tapering down to twelve dollar prizes.

HUGH BLUSHES AS HE HUNTS RAT

Your prayers are requested at the moment for one Hugh Todd, chief engineer of Boston's Y. W. C. A. Hugh, with his facial mantle a crimson, is pawing his way through the lingerie and things of more than 100 lady boarders at the "Y". It might be quite a job only they do say some of the girls run along ancient lines at the "Y", and who can get red blushed about—

But the idea is: A lovely old lady ran shrieking from the "Y" early today.

"Rats," she screamed.

"Who yer talking to?" asked the elevator runner. "Rats yourself" and she exposed a pink tongue belligerently.

"I mean there's a rat in my room," sobbed the nice old lady. "It jumped right out of my white hanan ycallits when I opened my door."

Whereupon the news spread and after the fair and frightened "Y" boarders had been prevented from jumping from fire escapes, Hugh, only male member of the famous "Y W," was selected to catch the foolish rat.

NEW PHONE CHIEF IS GIVEN TRIBUTE

Brockton, Aug. 7. — When Miss Marion C. Swan, the new chief operator assigned to the Brockton Exchange from Fall River, took her seat she found her desk decorated with numerous floral offerings from the force and the officials. Her response was a pledge to restore harmony in the telephone world and stand squarely behind her girls in the fight to restore service at the same time.

Miss Swan has been a junior operator since 1913, having joined the operating force in 1906. She has served as instructor and supervisor. During the World War she was in the Signal Corps of the U. S. Army, serving as chief operator at the army base at Tours, France, for some time. She was cited by General Pershing for bravery and efficiency.

Mrs. Annie Barrie

section opposing the petition. They claimed that a large concern was backing Cote in the project.

Mrs. P. B. Moritz and Mrs. Annie Barrie, living near the proposed site of the garage, are leading the protestants. Others who appeared against the petition were Rev. W. Ja. Pratt, pastor of the Stoughton Street Baptist Church, and Dr. E. A. Mollica, head of the Harley Hospital.

"Just say that I am back in town and that I am keeping my ear close to the ground."

Thus did Joseph C. Pelletier, former District Attorney of Suffolk County, conclude an interview with a Boston American reporter at the Bowers Street summer home in Hull.

The disbarred county prosecutor, fresh from a trip of nearly a year in foreign climes, presented a picture of perfect health. Fully twenty pounds lighter than when he left Boston last year, Mr. Pelletier had none of the weary appearance that characterized him just before his departure.

Joseph C. Pelletier

DISCUSSES K. C.

He talked at length on conditions abroad. But, when the question of "Bill" Corcoran was broached, he shut off his questioner with "I didn't even know they got him until a short time ago. I have nothing to say on the matter."

James A. Flaherty will be elected Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus," he predicted in discussing the convention city in session at Montreal, "despite the efforts of Colonel Callahan and others of Kentucky, to cause his defeat. Mr. Flaherty will establish himself against the propaganda that has been spread around about him."

LAUDS MUSSOLINI.

Speaking of his tour of Europe, he proclaimed the Fascisti of Italy as "The saviors of that country."

"Mussolini, to my mind, is the greatest man in the world today. Would to God that there were men like him in every nation on the globe. And I believe the time is ripe for a movement on the Fascisti lines right in America.

"I mean that it is time for all persons believing in organized government to band together to protect those who would destroy the government that has been builded by the blood of its sons and daughters in the United States.

"As for the future I have made no plans. I do not know now whether I will remain in private life or whether I will again return to public activities. I will have to get acquainted again, in town, before I decide what to do in the future."

MALDEN BOY DEAD OF AUTO INJURIES

Seven-year-old Ralph Lavargine of No. 13 Fenwick street, Malden, was knocked down by an automobile in Revere on Sunday. He died today in Memorial Hospital. The accident occurred at Broadway and Revere street. The boy's skull was fractured.

Must Abolish Poverty

Some Fundamental Truths About the Industrial Problem

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

There are a few fundamental truths we all should frankly admit, re industry.

Perhaps the most marked difference between a civilized man and a savage is that the civilized man has tools—that is, he has "things to work with."

One of these is Capital.

Civilization, the kind that we have and the kind that has been GROWN by natural evolution, means Capital.

Perhaps a better kind might be MADE, but it would be artificial, its advantages entirely theoretical and its drawbacks unknown.

The "Way Out" of our present industrial muddle is not to destroy Capital, for that would mean simply that the world should commit suicide. It is an argument of desperation and passion, not of intelligence.

But the "Way Out" is to abolish Poverty.

And Poverty may be defined as the condition of having no tools—that is, having no Capital.

The way to abolish Poverty, then, is to make every man, as nearly as possible, a Capitalist.

That can only be done by Thrift.

Thrift should not be preached by fear, but should be recommended as power.

We should not practice Thrift so that we will not go to the poorhouse, but to increase our earning power by making our saved-up money work for us.

The inequalities of society, that some are rich and some are poor, can be cured not by levelling down, but always by levelling up.

For, to make everybody poor, by abolishing Capitalism, would mean a step backward toward barbarism.

The State cannot take over all Capital, because the State can only act collectively. Individual enterprise and initiative are the best instigators of new ideas, new inventions, new improvements in industry that benefit many.

But the Class idea can be killed by every laborer becoming a Capitalist, which is the purpose of Thrift.

We are already on the way to this end now in this country. The huge mass of Capital is the aggregated savings of the workers.

When all wage-earners save systematically, it is they who will be the Money Power.

Increase in Capital is the only way to increase in Production; increased Production is the only way to permanent increase in Wages; and Wages set aside by Thrift is the only way to increased Capital; this is the only circle that is not vicious.

Killed to Order

$100, and Even Cheaper

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

A man in New York confesses that he was hired for $100 to kill a fur manufacturer, against whom he had no grudge, whom he had never seen.

The late "Big Tim" Sullivan, Congressman and State Senator from New York, when he introduced his Sullivan law, punishing the carrying of weapons, and, incidentally, nullifying one clause of the National Constitution, said to this writer: "For fifty dollars I can hire a man to kill any man in New York."

"Big Tim" knew what he was talking about and knew what could be done. There was little about New York that he did NOT know.

The worst of it is that murders, committed for cash, are the safest murders, for the killer, the most difficult for the police to trace.

When a human being is killed, detectives immediately search for a MOTIVE, and through the MOTIVE, they find the guilty man or woman. When there is no motive, the work of the detectives is most difficult.

Fortunately, criminals that can be hired for $50 or $100 to kill, have weak brains. They talk, their comrades tell.

Monkeys and Their Owner

Which Were More Foolish?

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Many men ruin themselves and their careers by talking too much. Two high-class monkeys in Italy did about the same thing, although they couldn't talk.

These high-class apes had been bought by two rich citizens of Naples, who desired to have Dr. Voronoff transfer glands from the monkeys' bodies to their own bodies.

The monkeys escaped from captivity, frightened hundreds of peasants, whose views on Darwinism seem to have been unsettled by the strange old-man faces of the apes.

Finally, the monkeys rang an alarm bell, perhaps trying to climb up the rope. Now they are prisoners once more, and science will try to transfer their youth and energy, via their glands, to the bodies of their more highly developed Neapolitan brothers.

Whether the monkeys, when they rang the alarm bell, or the Neapolitans, when they ordered the glands transferred, were the more foolish, time will tell.

Dogs Kill a Child

You Must Not Have Vicious Dogs

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

There are some queer and interesting things about the law. For instance, two great Danes, dogs as big as small Shetland ponies, recently attacked and killed a boy, eleven years old.

The child bled to death while many looked on, unable to drive away the savage brutes. The dogs also had bitten other children, but the police announce that "there is no law whereby they can demand the death of the dogs."

The owner, it seems, has kindly consented to send the dogs away to a new home, where, possibly, they may live to kill some other child. Decisions of this kind account for the fact that parents, disliking the idea of their children being mangled by dogs, frequently get along without the law, and get rid of the dog before the dog is able to get rid of their children. "Safety first," even at a dog's expense and at the risk of hurting a dog-lover's feelings, seems a good motto.

DIAMONDS HIGH AND SCARCE

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Very small brilliants have become scarce, and have risen in price from 15 to 20 per cent. during the last few months. This may be due to the new taste for platinum wedding rings set all round with tiny diamonds.

Emeralds are gradually becoming scarcer, the degrees of fashion of late having caused a large demand upon the already low stocks existing. A transaction in London running into large figures was recently spoken of, in which a diamond firm completed the purchase of an important shipment of emeralds, but otherwise there seem to exist practically no stocks of this stone in any quantity or variety.

A Little Grease, Please

Editor Boston American:

Has the Boston Elevated run out of grease? If not, it would be a good idea for them to apply a little to the sharp curve at the Boylston Street subway. It is a wonder that the hospitals for the deaf have not been swamped with customers. The shrieks of the wheels going around this place nearly tear the ear-drums out of passengers. Just a suggestion for some action with the grease cone.

The Immigrant

Editor Boston American:

Many of the most successful business and professional men in the country are the sons of immigrants. I wonder how they would have fared if their fathers had been refused admittance to America. Increased immigration is a boom to business because a growing population is the best evidence of prosperity. The census figures are the test of the decline or advancement of a people; childless Americans need somebody to take their places. Are we afraid of our kin?

Canada, wide-awake, offers employment to 1,000,000 English boys under eighteen years, passages paid under the overseas settlement act, the British government paying one-half and the Canadian government the other half.

WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF WISE MEN

WHERE there is sorrow there is holy ground.

It costs more to revenge injuries than to bear them.

Worthy things happen to the worthy.

In all societies it is advisable to associate, if possible, with the highest; Not that the highest are always the best, but because, if disgusted there, we can at any time descend, but if we begin with the lowest, to ascend is impossible. In the grand theatre of human life, a box ticket takes us through the house.

Parents Ill

Editor Helping Hand:

I would like to ask help for my little girls. My husband has had malaria and cannot work steadily. I have six children, five girls and one boy. The boy is thirteen and the girls are eight, seven, four, two, and five months. I am out of health myself as I have nervous trouble.

MRS. M. C.

Needs Crib

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there someone who can spare a baby crib they don't need? I have a small baby that is rapidly outgrowing the box I keep him in. I have been at the hospital twice and must go again, and the doctor's bill takes all I can get from my husband's small wages.

MRS. E. G. K.

Thankful for Stroller

Editor Helping Hand:

Just a line to let you know that my mama got the stroller that was never worn for, and she is more than thankful for it.

B. C.

Wants Work

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to ask you if you could help me to get some work a few hours a day. I am a lone woman compelled to work, and am unable to do all-day work as my feet are very bad. If there is anyone who has some dresses, size 18 or 20, they don't need, I would be very grateful for them.

MRS. F. D.

Asks for Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Has any kind reader any clothes for a new born baby, as the father makes only twenty dollars a week, and it all goes for food for the six children. The mother is heartbroken thinking of the coming baby with no clothes for it. Also any clothes for girls fourteen, nine and seven and boys, two, five and eleven.

MRS. M. H. F.

$2 for Mrs. J. B. W.

Editor Helping Hand:

Enclosed, please find two dollars for Mrs. J. B. W., who was left with two children. Kindly make no acknowledgment of this as your space is limited and can go for more valuable work. I am sorry that this isn't a twenty, but I am married and have two kids and money is tight. Xnf'ved.

JOHN.

We are enclosing your orders, but you leave no other way for us to express our sincere thanks. The money is being forwarded to her.

Well Provided for

Editor Helping Hand:

I have received a lot of help since writing to you. My five children are pretty well provided for now, and the new arrival has received so many clothes that I am going to ask you to send me the address of some mother of a young baby and also a girl of one or two years, as I have a few things for her also. I have written each one who helped me, and will always keep the letters received in return. I also want to thank you, for without your wonderfully thoughtful way of helping others, I should not have received this help.

MRS. G. N.

The addresses of such mothers will be sent you, and we thank you for your thoughtfulness.

Offers Girl a Vacation

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there some woman living in Boston who works or otherwise who has a child between the ages of four or five who would care to send the child away for the vacation for a month? I would prefer a little girl. I have two girls at home, one sixteen and the other ten, who could help give her a happy vacation. There is a pond near where bathing is good and plenty of playground for her to enjoy herself. She would have the best of care.

MRS. E. E. A.

Loses Her Home

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a widow with two boys, aged ten and six, and I must find a small flat of three or four rooms, as the house I live in is sold and I must get out. I have walked day after day and cannot find anything. I could pay fifteen dollars a month and it must be in Somerville. I hope and trust someone will see this that can help me.

MRS. A. H.

Assortment Offered

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some oil cloth and straw matting that I would be willing to send to Mrs. J. M. who asked for something to cover her poor floors. I also have some old clothes that I would be willing to send to someone, about 40 bust. I also have some shoes, size six. I have also a lot of hats, both Summer and Winter.

MRS. E. J. W.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. J. M., and of a woman who can use the things you mention.

Has Magazines

Editor Helping Hand:

If you will send me the address of the woman who asked for magazines, I have some magazines I will gladly send her. I read your paper every night and have noticed how much good you are doing for the people. I read a lot but have been giving my books to friends. Now I will have them returned to me so I can send them to someone who needs them. I will pay parcel post and send them at once to Mrs. L. E. M.

MRS. R. T.

Thank you for your thoughtfulness. You have been sent Mrs. L. E. M.'s address.

Year's Subscription

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of Mrs. L. E. M., who asks for some magazines. I am an agent for magazines and would be glad to send her a year's subscription to one. Your columns does wonders and I wish I was in a position to do more.

MRS. S. H. K.

You are very generous and I know Mrs. L. E. M. will be grateful. You have been sent her address.

HE FELL, AT FULL STATURE, ON THE MOUNTAIN TOP

By Herbert Kaufman

CALVIN COOLIDGE undertakes necessary functional duties, but postpones formal entry into the White House and assumption of executive responsibilities until his absent chief once more returns to Washington and then goes home to rest.

He who rides through sorrowing America, bound for the Capitol this last time, is still your President.

His administration is closed, but for one more week Warren Harding shall be "first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Let tomorrow consider achievement. Today belongs to grief and reverence.

Had he lived longer, he could have been unhappier. As it is, national affection must forever grace his memory.

He died in universal esteem, in the ripeness of power—power and esteem such as few men have known.

Retirement, tragedy of public service, had not erased the sweet taste of glory from his lips. He fell upon the mountain top at full stature.

The semi-obscurity in which many a notable reputation has shrunk may now never claim him.

Had he been presented for re-election, the signal distinction of a seven-million majority might have been wiped out; perhaps he would have known the eternal bitterness of defeat.

Party revolts, weighty economic problems, violent class misunderstandings and inestimable foreign difficulties were about to challenge and strain capacities that a predecessor was never compelled to demonstrate.

Atlas Bends Beneath the Load

Each year the world bears heavier upon its Atlases. Presidencies and premierships are heart-cracking, back-breaking jobs. Precedent and its guide books were lost and standard trains of thought wrecked in the early battles of 1914.

Good faith can't find the diplomatic glues to mend "scraps of paper," nor the horses and men to lift poor Humpty-Dumpty Europe back on the wall.

Civilization is emerging from bedlam—struggling against desperation and vengeance as Christianity battled with barbarism and despair above prostrate Rome—struggling to preserve the hopes of democracy and to fulfil its promises for humanity.

The vast and intricate machine we call progress, with its myriad interdependent cogs and cables, sputters here and starts there, makes shift with emergency devices and produces half its customary yield.

All at Topsy-Turvy

France refuses to release the brake on Germany—one main driving wheel; Russia, essential reservoir of wealths and energy, is utterly cut off from the central power station; Italy has just begun to mend her fortunes; Austria putters with the salvage of an Empire's junk heap; the Near East is an impoverished merchant, with no goods to sell and no money to stock bare shelves.

Great Britain wears a fine financial coat and patched industrial trousers. The pound is at work as usual—but millions of Englishmen are unemployed.

Jugo-Slavia, designed by political expediency, isn't running as originally engineered.

Hungary is a kingdom without a chosen monarch, and Poland a republic in search of a king.

Trouble, trouble everywhere, and lots besides at home.

Thorns for the Coolidge Crown

Abundance has laid a curse upon the farmer. Crops are too big for home consumption of grain, pork and beef surpluses or their by-products.

Perilous agricultural conditions require legislative relief, which in turn means a rise in Federal budgets and the probable disappointment in plans for immediate tax reductions.

There is no prospect of any further repayment from foreign debtors, and additional loans for the sole purpose of providing funds to purchase our own grain and merchandise would merely empty one pocket to fill another.

Coal and transportation strikes are promised as the alternative of higher pay and improved working conditions for miners and rail men.

Cheaper housing is rendered impossible by rising material costs and construction wages. Nobody's satisfied with the outlook.

Labor, gaining ground as producer, loses it as consumer. Increasing overheads bring increased household and business expenses all along the line.

Senators and Congressmen, bewildered by popular clamor, instead of pledging themselves to deal with fundamentals, fatuously suggest superficial palliatives and meretricious remedies.

Already Reaching for the New Broom

Meanwhile, East and West, North and South, urge revision of those tariff schedules which do not profit their peculiar, local interests. Railroads complain that interstate commerce rulings are too strict, and shippers protest that they are not drastic enough.

Mr. Coolidge inherits cares proportionate to his honors.

Sentimentality and propaganda advise our intervention yonder; common sense and experience, tradition and treasury balance sheets unite in supporting a stay-at-home and mind our-own-affairs policy. No outsider can do for Europe what she is not willing to do for herself.

But racial groups and commercial greed, thinking only of distressed kinfolk and obstructed opportunity, plead together with reckless emotionalism for the futile and sure-to-be-disastrous interference of America.

Contrary opinion will, as before, seek presidential ears and tug at presidential heart-strings.

Organized minorities shall again presume to possess more influence than they actually represent.

Washington, since armistice the real world capital, already overhears intrigue whispering and prepares for the replacement of several ambassadors.

New brooms call for new handles.
